Tide of Revolt Rises In Scandinavia

NAZIS ORDER 'EMERGENCY' AT TRONDHEIM

Declares Native Norwegians Attempt to Sabotage Supply System.

DANES FIGHT OFF YOKE

Spurn Demand They Join In 'Model Bloc' of States Under German Control.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—A rising tide of revolt by once-free men of Scandinavia against Nazi overlordship was reported today in news dispatches and broadcasts telling of a state of civil emergency in the important Norwegian coastal district of Trondheim and of Denmark's struggle to escape total engulfment in the Reich

These reports and recent hints of peace feelers by Finland plus German dissatisfaction with the political course of Sweden projected a broad picture of a weakening German grip in the north.

At least part of the rising opposition stemmed apparently from a scheme under which Hitler was reported planning to proclaim a "greater Germany" that would include Holland, Denmark and Norway

The free Danish council in London declared that Denmark already had received and rejected a demand for "voluntary incorporation" into a bloc of model states as a showpiece for Hitler's new order.

The council, representing a Danish group functioning independently of the Copenhagen government, said the Germans had threatened that unless Denmark came into the bloc, the country would be taken over and run by the Gestapo.

Stockholm dispatches to Bern said the report that Holland, Denmark and Norway were to be drawn into a greater Germany were distinctly "in the category of rumors," but attributed to them

'Commandos' Will Invade Home Front

Scrappy Mansfield 'Army' Being Organized for War Chest Fight.

Mansfield today was organizing its own army of Commandos in preparation for a wide-scale offensive on the "home front"

They'll not be armed with guns, bayonets, knives and the other war implements of the daring fighting units of the Allies They'll be Commandos in another war cause, however, and an important one

Thirteen divisions of Commandos—500 or more of them—will take upon themselves the task of winning a generous answer to the appeal "For Home and Country——Give" There will be scores of other Commandos carrying on the same jobs in separate offensives in rural Richland county and in Shelby

They'll form parts of fighting units in the Community War Chest Victory in the "home front' war will mean $140,377 in cash contributions and pledges. Of this, $75,357 will go to 11 war chest agencies and $65 020 to 11 Mansfield Community Fund agencies which, are even more vital in war time than in peace

The war theme for a wartime objective was decided upon last night when the Commando board of strategy met to outline details of the offensive which starts with a "zero hour" mobilization at 8:30 a. m. on Nov. 9 at the Madison theater. Some Commandos will mobilize in their own industries at the same time.

Objective of each of the Commandos will be to prevail upon each worker to "give one hour's pay each month."

"Well make it if everyone pitches in and I know Mansfield will do its part," was the confident prediction of Fred B Hout, Commando major general.

The "For Home and Country—Give" theme is the nation's War Chest slogan and Mansfielders will be made conscious of the importance of this in the weeks to come

The coordinated drive for the Community Chest and war relief organizations really began today with a plea from President Roosevelt for unstinted contributions in a year when "giving will not be easy."

Mr Roosevelt spoke last night in a nation-wide broadcast opening a community mobilization in more than 600 American cities.

"For most of us this year, giving will not be easy," he said War

How To Win A World Series With One Blow

This is how a world series is won—at least, it's how the 1942 series, between the St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Yankees was won. At the top, George Kurowski, Cardinal third baseman crosses the plate in the ninth inning of the fifth game of the series giving the Cardinals their fourth straight victory and the world's championship Teammates and the team batboy rush up to congratulate him. Umpire George Magerkurth is shown at the right. Bottom picture, poses happily with his wife. She's happy, too.

DRAFT BOARDS MAP CALLS FOR MARRIED MEN

Those Wed Before October, 1940, Face Induction By December, Officials Say.

1-A LISTS SHRINKING

One Board Reports Supply of Single Men Exhausted, Others Finish Next Month.

Mansfield and Richland county men who were married before the draft law was set up in October, 1940, will be called for service by December, board clerks said today after Board 3 reported it had called all of its 1-A men and the other two county boards indicated they would exhaust their supply of 1-A registrants next month.

Men without children will be called first. Then others with one or two children will be inducted, under the new selective service regulations which require boards to call all their other available men before breaking up homes.

Meanwhile, the county's three boards prepared to send a record number of men to Columbus during the final half of October for physical examinations and induction, while a large group from Board 3 left this morning for Camp Perry to be assigned to training centers

The contingent today left in three buses at 9 40 a. m from in front of the courthouse The Senior high school band played for the ceremonies and inductees were guests at a brief program in the courthouse.

Soldiers and relatives and friends who were on hand to say goodbye thronged the courthouse from 8.30 to 9:30 a m The crowd then moved outside as the men leaving for the army boarded the buses at the blast of a bus siren. Motorcycle police provided an escort for the buses as they went around Central park and headed out of the city

Boards 1 and 2 in Mansfield received tentative quotas for November today, both reporting the calls will be considerably lighter than those received for September and October. No date was set for the November inductions.

All three boards however, have been asked to send their greatest number of men for any single

'Relief' Drive Pounds Closer To Stalingrad

Germans, Hurling 20 Attacks A Day At Volga City, Use Parachute Snipers In Effort To Stop Russians Periling Left Flank.

(By United Press)

MOSCOW—A Soviet relief column was reported today to be pounding south along the Don river toward Stalingrad despite a screen of Nazi parachutist snipers dropped on the steppes to protect the German forces which are hurling 19 or 20 attacks each day at the defenders of the Volga city.

Reports from the battle front said the Germans were making every effort to protect the left flank of their troops massed at Stalingrad from the threatening drive by Marshal Semyon Timoshenko's relief column.

The Germans, it was reported, realize that the relief column must be halted in order to prevent its junction with the Soviet forces inside Stalingrad—a development which would force the Nazis to lift their siege of the city.

The Nazis were said to be dropping parachutist detachments to harass the Russian column and, meanwhile, intensifying their frontal assaults on the battered Russian lines inside Stalingrad.

The parachutist snipers, it was said were attempting to divert the Russians and force them to detach substantial forces and thus relieve the pressure on the German left flank

However, the Nazi tactics were said to have failed and the Russian column was still moving ahead.

The Germans were reported to have planted swarms of snipers inside shattered tanks, planes, trucks and broken equipment and in any form of available shelter found on the flat steppes where the battle was raging.

Russian snipers were fighting back against the Germans in combat which was said to resemble American Indian fighting more than present day mechanized war

The Germans were reported to be building bonfires and firing rockets to illuminate the flat country at night in order to carry on their sniping warfare by night as well as day

Front-line dispatches and the Soviet high command reported the smashing of 19 separate Nazi attacks of tanks and infantry, all heavily supported by artillery and mortars, in less than 24 hours.

All were believed to have been made in an industrial district in northwest Stalingrad, where the Germans were making their strongest effort with three divisions of infantry (45,000 men) and 100 tanks on a comparatively narrow sector.

Moreover Red army tommy gunners hurled the invaders from one whole district which was not named but presumed to be near the scene of the main action.

German prisoners told of the increasing frenzy of their commanders, who, with winter approaching, must make good on Adolf Hitler's promise that Stalingrad will be taken yet cannot stem the fierce Russian resistance.

Marshal Semyon Timoshenko's counter offensive, driving a deep wedge into the German left flank above Stalingrad, forged steadily ahead, although resistance was increasing. Front-line dispatches said it captured yesterday a hill that commanded a 12-mile radius.

Dispatches said that in no section inside Stalingrad had the Germans advanced, although they

Loudonville Posse Finds Missing Man With Hip Broken

LOUDONVILLE — Thirty Boy Scouts and a score of residents from this community, armed with flashlights and led by Marshal Bert Conrad, beat through brush and woodlands along the Black Fork river south of here for two hours last night in a search for George Yarman, 79, who had disappeared while on a fishing trip.

Yarman was found at 10 p. m. by Charles Mowery, Hanover township trustee, and three scouts. His groans led them to the place where he had fallen into a patch of weeds and fracture! his hip shortly after he left home at 3 p. m. Yarman said he had been calling for help throughout the afternoon and evening.

Marshal Conrad organized the search at 8 p. m. when members of Yarman's family notified the officer that he had failed to return. Conrad summoned scouts of Loudonville troop 1 who were meeting at the Legion hall; citizens joined the hunt; and searchers fanned out over a wide area along the river.

Yarman was taken to Samaritan hospital, Ashland, where his condition this morning was reported as "fairly good."

Taxes To Take Third Of U. S. Income In 1943, Senator Says

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Opening senate debate on the new $8,000 000 000 tax measure Chairman Walter F. George (D, Ga.), of the senate finance committee, today said that the American people face a tax bill of one-third the total national income.

In emphasizing the burden of war taxation, George did not include the new proposal of Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau for another $6,000,000,000 in federal taxes.

The finance committee's revision of the house-approved tax bill faced sharp attacks in the senate, but leaders in charge of the measure hope to push it through to final passage by Friday night.

George pointed out that the legislation is the largest single tax measure in American history and will make the total federal tax bill $26 337,000 000 to which must be added the $10 200,000 000 collected by state and local governments.

"It is believed that our national income at the end of the year will be $110,000,000,000," he said

Therefore, the total tax bill of the American people amounts to one-third of our national income"

The Georgian conceded that the bill dips heavily into low income groups, but said that this is necessary because that cate-

BUSES TO SLOW UP SCHEDULES

Running Time Lengthened 20 To 30 Minutes From City To Other Points.

Buses operating through Mansfield and over the entire Greyhound system will adopt slower schedules Oct 15 to enable drivers to comply with the new 35-mile-an-hour national speed limit, H. W. Palm, manager of the Mansfield Greyhound terminal said today.

Virtually every bus except those operating on local schedules to Shelby, Galion and other nearby cities, will get more time to make their runs because of the speed limit Palm said.

On the trip from Mansfield to Cleveland, the running time will be extended 20 minutes. The trip which now requires two hours and 35 minutes will be a two hour and 55-minute ride after Oct. 15

Thirty minutes will be added to the Columbus trip Instead of two hours and 15 minutes it will take two hours and 45 minutes Passengers to Chicago will have as much as 85 minutes added to their ride. Limited buses however, will take the Chicago run in as little as 43 extra minutes

Palm said night schedules will be less affected because they generally include fewer stops and can be made in less time.

Concrete Pouring Progresses On 30-N Grade Eliminations

With most of the paving preliminaries worked out, engineers were confident today that pouring of concrete could be resumed tomorrow on U. S. Route 30-N between the B. and O. and Erie railroad grade separations.

Pouring of concrete which started last Thursday was halted by yesterday's rain, but state and federal officials expressed confidence that, with a subcontractor on the job, the Lombardo Brothers' Construction company could complete the project before the Nov. 30 deadline.

Indications are that the Erie railroad will transfer its trackage to the new overhead right-of-way this week, releasing dirt needed to complete the fill between the B. and O. overpass and West Fourth street.

When state highway and Erie engineers disputed the necessity of a 90 day extension as requested by the Lombardos, the contractors, acting on the insistence of Division Highway Engineer Vance P Grimes, engaged the services of Howard Herring, another Cleveland road builder, who transferred equipment to this project from a program he completed 10 days ago in Medina county.

Considerable equipment had been removed from the local project to jobs started this year by Lombardo Brothers at Cleveland and Louisville.

LAUNCH DRIVE

C. of C. Workers Out to Contact 600 Member Prospects.

Enthused by campaign speeches to "sustain the membership of the organization that will be called upon to shoulder added responsibilities in war time, approximately 80 workers of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce set out today to complete the chamber's annual membership drive by Friday

The majority of the 39 two-man teams organized to conduct the drive were present at the early-bird breakfast at the Mansfield-Leland hotel where the first report luncheon will also be held Wednesday at 12 noon. After the breakfast the teams scattered in every direction to contact approximately 600 prospects.

Speakers this morning included George H Smith, campaign chairman; C M. Crafton, honorary chairman, and Robert C. Remy, president of the organization E G. Geiger, membership chairman, and George Stevens, a past president, also spoke.

TRAP: Japs Begin To Find Their Gains Will Destroy Them

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Fresh evidence that Japanese footholds in New Guinea, the Solomon islands and the Aleutians were becoming traps of destruction for the invader's troops, planes and ships emerged today out of new Allied successes in the battle of the Pacific

On the three strategic fronts Allied and American airforces shot down a total of 22 Japanese planes last week damaged two more, blew up a supply ship bombed a destroyer out of commission, hit two cargo ships, strafed barges and blasted enemy camps, ground forces and installations

The costly price of Japanese activity in the Solomons was demonstrated in a navy department report yesterday The communique covering four days of action up to Oct 3, reported destruction of 10 enemy planes, boosting the total shot down in this war theater to 229 to date.

Amid frequent clashes with enemy patrols U. S Marines prevented any major changes in their hard-won positions on Guadalcanal but the Japanese succeeded in landing small troop reinforcements at night

Four enemy destroyers, seeking to cover a small landing at Viru harbor, became a target for U. S. dive bombers and torpedo planes and one of the warships was left "dead in the water," the navy said. No American losses were reported.

Gen Douglas MacArthur's Australian headquarters told of further advances by Australian jungle troops in New Guinea. Still without contacting the Nipponese, the ground forces pushed past Kagi last community south of the CLAIM: Italians Boast They Have Sunk Big U. S. Battleship

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—The Rome radio broadcast a special communique today reporting that an Italian submarine put four torpedoes into the bow of a United States battleship of the 33,000-ton Mississippi class in the Atlantic 330 miles off Freetown, West Africa, and that the battleship "was seen sinking."

There was no confirmation from any other source for this claim nor any indication that the United States warships were operating in that area. (In Washington, the navy department said it had no comment to make on the claim.)

The communique said the Italian submarine Barbarigo scored four torpedo hits on the battleship at 2:31 a m, Rome time, today (8:34 p. m., E. W. T., Monday) The Barbarigo, an ocean-going type, previously had been reported by the Italians to have sunk a United States battleship of the Maryland class near Brazil last May 22.

This claim, more than four months later, still had no confirmation.

Strangely, the Italians claimed to have hit both battleships in the bows Such blows, while possibly damaging, would be unlikely to sink modern warships with special protection against torpedoes and a honeycomb of watertight compartments to confine the effect of torpedo hit.

In the Maryland claim, the Ital-

News Happenings From Communities In Richland County, Vicinity

CHESTERVILLE WILL DEDICATE NEW FLAGPOLE

Former Columbia Professor To Speak at Community Event Saturday.

CHESTERVILLE — A celebration and flag-raising Saturday evening will honor the boys who have gone to the armed services from this community. Already more than 50 have gone from this community to join the army, the navy and the marines.

Citizens committees from the Chester-Franklin school district are planning the event. Trustees of the village of Chesterville and Chester and Harmony townships will aid the project.

The ceremony will begin at 8:00 p. m. on the public square in Chesterville, but the high schol band mothers, under the chairmanship of Mrs. H. P. Squires, will sell hot chicken sandwiches, pie and coffee on the square beginning at 5:00 p. m.

The flag-pole of native wood grown near Chesterville is being erected in the northeast intersection of the two main streets. It will stand forty feet high. At its base will be fixed a large service roster board on which will appear the name of each person who has entered the armed services. As other persons join, new names will be added to the roster.

The board is being built by D. C. Coffman and his class in the high school wood shop. Albert Scowden, who has volunteered to care for the flag, is chairman of the flag and flag pole committee.

Mrs. T. M. Gorrell and a committee of women will sell war bonds and stamps at a booth on the square. Each buyer will receive a badge.

Superintendent of Schools T. M. Gotrell and Vaughn Waite are chairmen for the event. Ira Halt, music teacher in the Chesterville, Sparta and Johnsville schools and resident of Chesterville will lead the high school band in a concert.

Harley Allen, Frank Haines, Lee Snyder and Waite are in charge of the lights, seating and platforms. Chester Ramsey will operate the public address system. The Misses Jennie Edman and Vida Barry, Mrs. Ruie Lemaster and Mrs H. P. Squires form the publicity committee.

The high school band will open the celebration with a program of military numbers.

Ralph McGaughy who has returned to Chesterville, following his retirement from the position of Professor of Education at Columbia university, New York City. The address and the singing of "America" by the audience will precede the flag raising.

As the beam of a spot-light follows the flag to the top of the pole, Mrs. Justin Waite, accompanied by the band will sing "The Star Spangled Banner."

Township Official Ordered To Ashland Jail After Guilty Plea.

ASHLAND — Charles A. Godfrey, 71, Montgomery township constable, was given a 30-day jail sentence Monday and a deferred penitentiary sentence when he changed a former plea of not guilty to guilty to an indictment charging him on two counts of felonious assault on two minors.

The penitentiary sentence, which is one to 10 years, was deferred providing Godfrey resign from his office of constable and that he refrain from any familiarity with children.

A second indictment charging Godfrey with unlawful assault was dismissed after Godfrey pleaded guilty to the first indictment.

He will begin serving his jail sentence in the Ashland county jail Wednesday.

Judge Clarence U. Ahl of the Crawford county court of common pleas has been assigned to the Ashland court to preside in the trial of Mrs. Kathryn Boeh Buzzard for perjury, scheduled for jury hearing Oct. 15.

Common Pleas Judge H. E. Culbertson withdrew from the bench for the trial because the indictment against Mrs. Buzzard arose from testimony she gave in his court in obtaining a divorce from George Boeh.

DONATES ANVIL TO SCRAP DRIVE

Retired Buggy Maker Spurs Campaign of Shelby School Pupils.

SHELBY — With Frank A Abbott of South Gamble street donating the 175-pound anvil used by his grandfather, Daniel Abbott, in a blacksmith shop 150 years ago, the scrap drive being conducted here by the Shelby school pupils today was showing marked progress, school officials disclosed.

The anvil which had gone down through three generations of the Abbott family, had been used in later years as a wedge to split kindling. Abbott, who is a retired buggy maker and salesman, also presented the school children with an iron safe for their drive.

The schools opened the drive for scrap here officially on Monday with the high school and elementary schools all taking part. Proceeds from the sale will go into the Junior Red Cross fund.

HEADS PASTORS

Rev. C. E. Rider Again Elected By Ashland Ministers' Group.

ASHLAND—Rev. C. E. Ryder, pastor of the Church of God, was re-elected president of the Ashland City Ministerial association at the annual election.

Rev. P. M. Redd, pastor of the United Brethren church, was re-elected vice president and Dr. H. E. Andrews of the Presbyterian church, secretary-treasurer.

At the election meeting it was decided to hold the annual Thanksgiving service this year on the Wednesday evening before Thanksgiving day at the United Brethren church with Dr. Frank L. Hicks, pastor of the Methodist church, delivering the Thanksgiving sermon.

29 Years on New London Job

Twenty-nine years at the same job — that's the record established by Miss Esther Squire, above, who has just relinquished her post as stock clerk of the C. E. Ward company at New London. She was in charge of all finished goods, robes and gowns during the first years of her employment. Later, as the company expanded, Miss Squire was given several assistants. When she began work, her "office" was a desk in the center of the one large stock room in the main factory. When the "uptown' offices were acquired, the office space in the old building was converted to factory use, with several of the former "private offices" being used by department heads. One of these offices was remodeled for the use of the stock clerk. Since her resignation she plans to make her home with her sister Eva, in Tucson, Ariz.

WEDDINGS OF TWO CRAWFORD COUNTY COUPLES ANNOUNCED

BUCYRUS — Announcement is being made here of the marriage of Miss Ethel Mutchler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Mutchler, 1418 Woodlawn avenue, and Donald L. Haines, son of Mrs. Laura Haines, 520 East Charles street, Saturday at 7 p. m. in the United Brethren parsonage. The couple was attended by the bride's sister, Miss Goldie Mutchler, and Samuel Ruffner of Sandusky.

Mr. and Mrs. Haines are making their home at 215½ East Mansfield street.

The new Mrs. Haines is secretary to Supt. of Schools D. C. Baer and is clerk of the board of education. Mr. Haines is employed at the Paxton automobile agency.

From where I sit ....

by Joe Marsh

ED CAREY, our fire chief, came stompin' into the printin' office last week, madder'n a hornet.

"Say!" he yells. "If I could get my hands on that fellow Goebbels, I'd stick a fire hose in his mouth and turn on the pressure," Ed shouts, poundin' my desk. "Do you know what he's puttin' on the German short-wave propaganda to America NOW? He's tellin' folks that American army camps are full of drunkenness! Can you beat it?"

"Calm yourself, Ed," says I. "Nobody's going to believe what Goebbels tells 'em."

"But don't you see? He's puttin' this bare-faced lie on the air to stir up trouble."

"Pretty stupid propaganda, I'd say. Pretty silly, even for the Nazis," says I.

"How so?" says Ed. "There's people in this country that want beer taken out of the camps. That sure is going to hurt army morale. And this lie certainly is fuel for their fire."

"Not if I know Americans," I says. "And the Nazis don't know us. People realize that if Goebbels wants beer taken away from our soldiers—there must be a reason. The enemy won't stop anything that's hurting our army. They'll try to stop whatever's helping it."

"Say! That's true, ain't it?" Ed began to grin.

"Of course it's true—and reasonable people can't help but see it. So instead of makin' trouble—like they hope—they're just confirmin' what the Secretary of War and the other Army leaders believe—that among the other good wholesome things a fighting man can get at the canteen in camp—America should include beer."

From where I sit—I can guess why Goebbels wants beer out of the camps. The Nazis would a heap rather face an army that already lost its rights than one that was fighting for freedom it could touch and taste and feel every day . . . Wouldn't you?

SOCIETY & CLUBS

MUSIC STUDY CLUB HAS FIRST MEETING

Miss Florence MacDonald, President, Has Charge of Business Session; Program Given on "Music of the Nations."

"MUSIC OF THE NATIONS" was the program subject when the Mansfield Music Study club held its initial meeting of the season at the Mansfield-Leland hotel last evening. Program chairman for the occasion was John Grabler. Mrs. E. D. Gibson, commentator, was assisted by several local members who illustrated her paper. Presiding over the meeting, which began at 7:45 with group singing of "The Star Spangled Banner," was the newly elected president, Miss Florence MacDonald. Accompaniment for the singing was furnished by Mr. Grabler.

Mrs. Miller spoke urging women to enroll in the nurses' aid course sponsored by the Red Cross and the Office of Civilian Defense. New members of the Music Study club welcomed and introduced by Miss MacDonald are Miss Estella K. Arras, Mrs. Retta Bonar, Rev. H. L. Gilbert, Mrs. W. V. Isham, Mrs. H. R. Scott and Mrs. A. C. Secrist. The president announced that all regular meetings will be held on Sundays at 4 p. m. in St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church. Plans for the regional conference, which will be held in Loudonville next week, also were announced by Miss MacDonald.

When Mrs. Gibson gave her paper on "Music of the Nations," a choral group directed by Miss Myrtle Booth, with Mrs. Fred Cahall at the piano, sang "None But the Lonely Heart," by Tschaikowsky, as an example of Russian music. Members of the chorus were the Misses Arras, Thelma Reed, Vera Smythe, Mrs. Emory Smith, Mrs. E. K. Tingley, Mrs. Claude Ewing, and Mrs. J. C. Klinger. Attired in a Russian costume, Mrs. George W. Hall, pianist, played "Melody," by Rachmaninoff and "Polka," by Shostakovitch.

For Spain Miss Doris Ranck, in appropriate costume, sang "Tus Ojillos Negros," by De Falla. Her accompanist Mrs. Sam Lockshin, also offered "Playera," by Granados, and "Pequena Danza Espanola," by Iturbi. Illustrating Czechoslovakia, Poland and Bohemia, Mrs. Hall presented "Indian Lament," by Dvorak. Two Mansfield Macedonian girls, Helen Chrokeff and Mary Theodosoff gave a native dance in costume to a recording of music by a native orchestra.

English and American music were illustrated by Mrs. Cahall, who played "Spoon River," by Percy Grainger, and "Turkey In the Straw," arranged by Guion. Closing the program for the northern countries was the famous "Finlandia," by Sibelius, played by Mrs. Cahall and sung by the choral group.

Following the program a social time was enjoyed and a buffet lunch was served to the members and guests.

Buckeye Hobby Club Dinner Monday Night

The Buckeye Hobby club entertained 75 members and their families at the Y. M. C. A. last evening, to celebrate the club's fourth anniversary. Dinner was served at long tables decorated with bittersweet and other fall appointments.

The committee in charge of arrangements was Mrs. Keith Ross, Mrs. Henry Henke, Mrs. Edna Chronister and Mrs. Edgerton. Piano selections were given by David Edgerton, Norma Henke, and Carl Blust, and a vocal duet was sung by the Kelly twins. Other entertainment, also greatly enjoyed, was a tap dance by Mary Jo Staninger and Jean Altman, an accordion number by Wilma Bonecutter, Donna Davis and Arlene and Joan Christman, a guitar selection by Eugene Henke, and several clever comedy skits by Eugene Gump.

The following new members were welcomed into the organization, Mrs. Florence Christman, Mrs. J. H. Krupp, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Copeland, and Mrs. Ann Bunting. Mr. and Mrs. Guy Shawk were welcomed back after a year's leave of absence.

A nominating committee was appointed consisting of Mrs. V. C. Stevens, Mrs. Henry Albers, and Miss Kathryn Pfeifer. The next meeting will be held on Nov. 2 with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hill. Mrs. Marian Cerrell, Mrs. Harry Shover, and Miss Katherine Riggs in charge.

DEGREE TEAM MEETS

The Degree Team of the Pocahontas club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Anna Wigton at the home of Mrs. Rose Berry. Following the business meeting Bunco and 500 were played. High scores going to Mrs. Edith Stickrod and Julia Grandstaff. Mrs. Elizabeth Croskey received the club prize. Later in the evening refreshments were served. On Nov. 2, Mrs. Frances Wolf will be hostess at her home, 233 West Fourth street.

Rushing Season Of Beta Pi Mu Opens Sunday

A lovely tea was given Sunday afternoon, from 2:30 to 4:30 by Beta Pi Mu sorority at the Colonial Guest House on the Wooster road. This was the first social function of the sorority's rushing season.

Miss Margaret Rizer is chairman of the rushing season and was assisted yesterday afternoon by the Misses Betty Jona and Elaine Brumenschenkel. The afternoon was spent socially with bridge as the main diversion. Miss Rizer introduced the guests to the organization and Miss Jona presented each girl with a lovely corsage of red and white carnations tied with blue ribbons.

Tea was served from a long table covered with a Quaker lace cloth. The centerpiece was a large round bouquet of white carnations with red roses, the sorority flower, on a large round mirror. Completing the patriotic theme was a large "V" made of miniature American flags. Miss Brumenschenkel poured.

Guests for the affair were, the Misses Marilouise Mattox, Clara Jasinski, Lois Laubscher, Betty Roth, Mrs. William Bernhart and Miss Carol Haudenschild. A business meeting for members will be held Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Anne McQuaid, 620 Johns avenue. A covered dish dinner will be held for members and pledges on Tuesday, Oct. 13, with Mrs. Dale Hammett, Mrs. John Wolfe and Miss McQuaid in charge.

Party Honors Third Birthday

Mrs. Frank Gadfield, 197 West Park boulevard, entertained last Saturday in honor of her daughter, Mary Jane's third birthday. From 2 to 5 the children enjoyed games and contests, each child receiving a prize.

Refreshments were served at a long table centered with a tiered cake on which were three candles. A color scheme of pink and green was carried out in the favors and hats which each child wore. The little guest of honor received many lovely gifts.

Those attending the party were, Charlot Hayward, Diane Hayward, Marilyn Heuss, Roberta Phipps, Gwendolyn Gadfield, Leonard Heuss, Paul Park and Bruce Mickey.

Pick Coat With Care For Duration

By SUSAN BARDEN
(International Illustrated News Writer)

THIS FALL American women are going to put a great deal of thought into the coat they buy, and designers are urging them to dig down into ther jeans and really get a good coat. Of course this makes sense, because what with priorities and the fact that fabrics are going to get scarcer, the coat you get in 1942 may have to last for the duration of the war.

When you start on your shopping tour, remember some of the facts that are being stressed by both fashion experts and manufacturers. They advise first of all getting a model that is of the best material of its kind. Second, they suggest the easy-going classic type that would be appropriate for every occasion, and third, they feel that the coat should be smart, and tailored along lines that will always look well and that you won't tire of after a year's wear.

The three types shown in the above photographs are examples of all these points. They are warm and practical, being made of Hockanum wool and at the same time top styles.

Boyish Topcoat Popular.

The boyish topcoat with straight box lines is especially popular with the younger set. This one is tricked up with clever tailoring, including slash pockets, dressmaker bindings and big buttons. It is a cleverly simple coat that can be worn over everything, and is roomy enough to give plenty of arm freedom for whatever wartime activities you are going in for.

The reefer has the new Balmaccan cut, another fashion that was borrowed from the men, with a double-breasted closing and trim velveteen collar. The buttons are also covered with velveteen. It is the shorter length and has large patch pockets.

The third coat has a hint of military swagger and is a bright shade of autumn red. It is double-breasted with wide lapels of glossy black Persian lamb. It features the new silhouette, and has an air of elegance and sophistication that would make it a gay companion for the cold days to come.

SILVER SERVICE, TROPHY GIVEN AT WESTBROOK

Women's Golf Association Has Luncheon at Club House; Replaces Service Lost in Fire; Awards Trophy.

THE WESTBROOK Women's Golf Association presented a silver coffee service to the women of Westbrook Country club at a beautifully appointed luncheon given at the club house on Monday. This service replaces the Mrs. Emerson McLean service that was lost in the fire that destroyed the club house last year.

Mrs. T. J. Newcomb, past chairman of the Golf association, requested Mrs. H. G. Balyeat to present the coffee service to four women present who are wives of charter members. Mrs. Charles Brown accepted the gift for the club women and gave an interesting picture of the beginning of Westbrook Country club. Mrs. Charles Voegele was president of the club for the first 16 years of its existence. Mrs. Arthur Rigby, Mrs. J. E. Brown, Mrs. Charles Keating, Mrs. William McE. Weldon and Mrs. Charles Brown represented the Westbrook women.

A silver bowl given by Mrs. L. W. Olson as a tournament trophy, was presented by her to the Golf Women's association. The trophy is now in the possession of Mrs. William A. Springer, the 1942 champion. Mrs. E. R. Hardman accepted the trophy for the association.

Auxiliary Holds Meeting Monday

Mrs. D. W. Peppard and Mrs. Frank Maxwell were hostesses for a dessert-luncheon at the Women's Club at 1:30 p. m. Monday when the Woman's Auxiliary to the Richland County Medical society had its regular social meeting. Mrs. Joseph Montgomery described the nurses' aid course and urged the women to enroll.

The business session was conducted by Mrs. C. H. Bell in the absence of the president, Mrs. S. C. Schiller. Bridge was played during the social hour. On Nov. 2, the society will again meet at the Women's Club at 1:30 p. m. Hostesses will be Mrs. Edson Brown and Mrs. J. F. Morey.

Monday Study Club Meets At Sleepy Hollow

Opening meeting of the Monday Study club was held last night in the form of a picnic supper at "Sleepy Hollow," Friendly House camp. Mrs. Russell Gimbel, hostess, and Mrs. Charles Orr, associate hostess, were assisted by the program committee, Miss Edith Moore, chairman, Mrs. M. K. Leggett and Mrs. Wilfred Workman.

Twenty-two members and one guest, Mrs. Harold Pry, a former member, were present. Theme for the year's programs is the "State of Ohio." Appropriate table decorations included a centerpiece of red carnations, the state flower, buckeyes and red, white and blue candles. The program booklets were distributed at the meeting. Games were in charge of Mrs. Orr.

Officers are Miss Katharine Hien, president; Miss Moore, vice president; Mrs. R. A. Rowlands, secretary; and Mrs. N. S. White, treasurer. The Oct. 19 meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Henry Huston on Sturges avenue with Mrs. White assisting.

The year's program was planned and the two new members, Mrs. Lytle and Mrs. Duross, were welcomed into the club. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. W. E. Slabaugh, 589 Andover road, with Mrs. R. J. Welsh and Miss Myra Lorimer as hostesses.

Pull the Trigger on Constipation, with Ease for Stomach, too

When constipation brings on discomfort after meals, stomach upset, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, and bad breath, your stomach is probably "crying the blues" because your bowels don't move. It calls for Laxative-Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels, combined with Syrup Pepsin for perfect ease to your stomach in taking. For years, many Doctors have given pepsin preparations in their prescriptions to make medicine more agreeable to a touchy stomach. So be sure your laxative contains Syrup Pepsin. Insist on Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna combined with Syrup Pepsin. See how wonderfully the Laxative Senna wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your intestines to bring welcome relief from constipation. And the good old Syrup Pepsin makes this laxative so comfortable and easy on your stomach. Even finicky children love the taste of this pleasant family laxative. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna combined with Syrup Pepsin, as directed on label or as your doctor advises, and feel world's better. Get genuine Dr. Caldwell's.

Makeup for Night Party

By MME. QUI VIVE

At every party there are two types of women, the one who can dance through hours of merry making, look as fresh and sweet and young as when she arrived, and the other who goes wilty long before the good-byes are said. Much depends, of course, upon how the day has been spent. If a woman pulls out of bed early, tears through the housework, has all sorts of irritating matters to deal with, waits for the daddy to come home late for dinner, the chances are she is ready for bed before she ever starts out. While the lady of leisure who has snatched a nap after luncheon fares forth strong and resilient. She doesn't care if the party goes on into the next day.

No woman with sense in her head will make hurried preparations when she is arraying herself for the merry evening. To arrive flurried and hurried, with cheeks flushed, is to be handicapped at the start. Her energies are at low ebb. Excitement will keep her going for a time and then she'll go into a huddle by herself, wish to goodness she could shell off her glad rags and pile into bed. Observe the lady who has made proper preparations. She has basked in a hot bath for 15 minutes, has a cold shower, rested with a cold compress over her eyes, arose refreshed and ready for anything that might be on the entertainment program.

So far, so good.

After her bath she went over her sacred complexion with a cold cream, rubbing upward from the collar bones, doing circles around her eyes, rotary movements on the forehead. She removed every bit of the cream with tissues, then applied a foundation cosmetic. She made a new face for herself, one that will last until the party breaks up.

Having a keen understanding of foundations, she keeps on frictioning until the application has disappeared. She knows that only a light film should remain, just enough to make powder stick. Too much is worse than no application at all.

Atop the foundation she uses a tonic lotion to set it. If powder is to be flattering, the skin must be moist.

She uses a cream rouge for the very good reason that the compact kind goes faint. Rouge tones, this year, are interesting. She can select a wine, cyclamen, American beauty or red plum, whichever appeals to her little heart's desire. She will keep away from the carmines, which are distinctly old stuff. "Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

Carolyn hesitated for a moment before answering my father's question. Then her nimble brain formed a reply she considered adequate.

"Because I am so frantic over Marion," she said, "that I grab at any chance in trying to find out something about her. And I received a letter from a—a man, who used to come up to our dances and liked Marion pretty well—and something in it made me think he knew where Marion was. It was just a faint hope, but I felt like snatching at any straw, so I wrote that letter to Ronald, asking to come down here."

My father's studious gaze had been fixed steadily on her face, and his appraising regard patently troubled her, for no "spent top" ever ran down more swiftly than her voice.

Asks For Letter.

My father waited a few seconds before he answered her, his eyes fixed on her face, then spoke in syllables that counded like falling hail.

"Have you that letter with you?" he asked. "It may be a vital clue to Marion's whereabouts."

"That's what I thought," Carolyn answered, visibly stalling for time. "That's why I came down, as I told you. But—I'm sorry; I haven't it with me now."

"Where is it?" the whiplash which he can put into his voice sounded now.

"I—I don't remember," she said, her inventive powers palpably lagging. "I think I gave in to Ronald."

My father picked up the telephone.

"That will be easy for us, then," he said. "I'll get Ronald on the telephone, and have him send the letter over to us."

Says She Lost It.

"Oh, no, don't do that" she cried involuntarily, then added lamely: "I remember now. I was going to give it to Ronald, then found I had lost it."

He spoke into the telephone, as he gave her another level glance.

"Never mind that call," he said, "but stand by; I may need you."

Then he turned to Richard.

"Could it be possible," he asked, "that the young man we have confined in one of those sound proof rooms, is the one who wrote Carolyn that very interesting letter?"

"Entirely possible, I should say," Dicky answered.

Knows She's a Prisoner.

The shot had found its mark. Carolyn looked around her wildly, then pulled herself together and put a query which apparently held nothing but curiosity.

"Sound proof rooms?" she said with a rising inflection. "Prisoners? What is this place, anyway?"

"It is my own personal hideaway," my father said measuredly. "The very few people who come here fall into two classes, men and women in my employ who know all about the building and its secrets, and others who are permitted to see it only from the inside, so they never can reveal anything about it.

"I suppose," Carolyn said, in a voice from which she vainly tried to keep a tremor, "that you count me in the latter class."

"You ought to be able to form your own conclusions," my father said coldly. "Your eyes were blindfolded until after you were safely in this room."

For an instant she shrank back palpably terrified, then her natural bravado came to her rescue and she flung her head up defiantly. I sent a puzzled glance at my father, wondering if it were wise to talk so freely before her. Then his eyes flashed me an assurance that he had a distinct purpose in what he was saying.

"And," Carolyn countered in metallic tones, "I imagine that the sound-proof rooms are fashioned that way so no outcries can be heard from them?"

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

IS GRAND SLAM LIKELY?

ABSOLUTELY sure things of any kind are so rare in connection with contract bridge that players who insist upon them lose by their timidity. Those who apply probabilities soundly take their turns at winning and losing, but gain more than if they had not taken their sane chances. That injunction applies to grand slam bids the same as to anything else, except that you want the probabilities pretty strongly with you, as if your reach for the grand slam fails, you sacrifice both the small slam bonus and the game bonus, in addition to the value of the tricks.

After South's response to the Blackwood 4-No Trumps showed two aces and his response to the 5-No Trumps showed two kings, North's only problem was whether to bid the small slam or the grand slam.

Here is the way he reckoned. If South has the kings of both major suits, then a grand slam is a laydown, with four tricks in spades, six in hearts and three in the minor suits. If South has the king of spades and the king of one of the minors, the very worst thing necessary is to win a finesse in hearts—and even that would not be necessary if South has the singleton ace, so that the suit may be ruffed up, or if he has a singleton club ace and only a doubleton in hearts.

Also, if the two disclosed kings do not include the spade king, there is still the chance to catch it in a finesse or find West holding it as a singleton.

Considering all of these various possibilities greater than those which could cause the grand slam to fail—in fact, considering them much greater, including the probability that South had the king of his own bid suit, North bid the grand slam. It turned out that he had to win the finessse to make it.

HOROSCOPE

FOR WEDNESDAY, OCT. 7

The lunar transits operating on this day hold auguries that must be interpreted as conflicting and perplexing. There are signs of sudden and devastating circumstances, which may involve changes, upsets, separations and other unpredictable events. Postponements and disappointments may possibly accompany this upheaval. But there are some aspects making for benefits.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of contradictions and unforeseen dilemmas and upheavels. These may be sudden and surprising in causing upsets of plans and desires, with loss or separations and possibly sorrows or regrets. While it may be a devastating and disintegrating influence, at the same time there may be favors, advancement or public approval of cherished ideals.

A child born on this day should have creative ability and initiative which should assure it favors and co-operation from superiors.

Jealousies of Adolescents Are Problem

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

We were visiting, several years ago, a family we had known for years. We had known the oldest child in that home since she was a little girl, and had always thought of her as a lively, active, interesting child. At the time of our visit she was 16. She had a little brother of three.

Well, what did we do? As we entered that home we did what most people do: we found that lad attractive, and we began talking to him. Adults don't seem to know how to act toward children. If we just follow our impulses we are generally wrong. We met the daughter. She just responded with a few words and stood back, with nothing more to say.

Parents Unaware.

Throughout the dinner hour the little lad was talkative. The father and mother were much interested in their son and were not at all conscious of what was happening. When we went home that night we almost at the same time began talking about the girl, wondering why she was so different. We concluded that the cause was jealousy. Her brother was everything; she was nothing.

A few years later this girl went away to college. She got along well, received some distinction in her classes, came back, was met by her old friends. We saw that child on her vacation and a more attractive, charming personality, I think I never have seen. The difference was most wonderful! Why? She got more attention, almost no reminders of her inferiority; she felt she was somebody. She had got letters from home; she was succeeding, doing something which reminded her of her importance.

A student of mine one time told me about a sister of 13. Said she, "My sister, we fear, is developing insanity." "Did you talk with a psychiatrist about her? Why do you think that?" "Oh, if we leave her alone with the baby sister of three, she will slap her and pull her hair."

A Sudden Change.

"That is strange; have you ever thought of jealousy?" I asked, and pointed out the apparent suffering of the older daughter. A few months later the student reported that her sister was all right, and that she "loves the baby sister and has changed completely." Something happened in the meanwhile. An aunt from the far west had visited the family.

"She has been all right since my aunt from the west visited us. I do remember her saying to my sister, 'Why, the baby is just the image of you,' and I remember how she beamed." That was enough, even though it was a mere accident.

Russia had the most casualties in the first World war—over nine millions killed, wounded and missing.

The Week-End Guests Like Baked Ham

By BETSY NEWMAN

Having guests over the week-end? I don't know of anything better to serve them for Sunday dinner than baked ham. Bought in a good-sized piece, ham is much cheaper than bought in the slice, and, too, whatever there is left over can be used later, sliced cold, in sandwiches, creamed, in an omelette, and in various other ways that make it an economical as well as a delicious wartime dish.

Today's Menu.

Baked Ham
Sweet Potatoes Hawaiian
Scalloped Cabbage Waldorf Salad
Chocolate Ice Cream Cake
Coffee

Baked Ham.

½ Smoked Ham (4 to 6 lbs.)
Pimiento
12 to 15 Cloves

Bake ham in slow oven (300 degrees F.), allowing 30 minutes to the pound. One-half hour before it is done, remove skin and cut fat with cooky cutter, but do not remove centers. Cut thin strips of piemiento and place in slits made by cutter, and stick whole cloves in center of each. Drain excess fat from pan.

Glaze For Ham.

¼ cup dark corn syrup
¼ cup water
1 teaspoon vinegar
1 teaspoon clear ham fat

Put syrup, water, vinegar and ham fat in a saucepan, bring to a boil, and continue cooking about 10 minutes. Remove from heat, let cool slightly, and pour over ham. Continue baking for ½ hour, basting several times.

Sweet Potatoes Hawaiian.

Sweet potatoes
Vegetable oil
Sliced canned pineapple
Butter
½ cup dark colored corn syrup

Parboil sweet potatoes about 10 minutes; peel, then cut into slices about ½ inch thick. Arrange a layer of potatoes in baking dish oiled with vegetable oil, cover with a layer of sliced, canned pineapple, then another layer of potatoes; dot with butter and pour corn syrup over all. Bake in moderate oven at 375 degrees F. until glazed and brown.

World Champion Cards Prove Really Great Ball Club

Sport Podge by REX HESS

Mansfield football fans who have been worrying about the fumbling habits of their high school Tygers can sit back and relax now. The problem's solved.

Mel Harmon, Sandusky sports writer, says Coach Paul Snyder can solve this problem by having his center pass the ball a little higher. "Most of the Mansfield backs," says Harmon, "were taking the ball at their knees and momentarily juggling it."

Seems the Tygers have been playing Kneeball instead of Football.

I don't think our Dick Butterfield is going to like Mr Harmon very well.

For Harmon had to remind the Sandusky populace that Mansfield fans maintained the Tyger "back who touched a Sandusky punt and then failed to recover the ball was named Butterfield, not Butterfingers."

Best line of the week is contributed by Harry Yockey of the Canton Repository who explains numerous fumbles in the McKinley - Lincoln scoreless tie thusly: "Both teams were tackling so hard, the backs were lucky to retain consciousness, let alone the ball."

If Dick Butterfield doesn't like Sandusky's Mr. Harmon now, he is in good company because my extra special operative Whizzer White does not like Mr. Harmon either.

Accustomed to the fire football programs put out by Vern Hoffman and the Mansfield "M" association, Whizzer looked in vain for some such thing at Sandusky.

"Programs?" What are they?" Harmon inquired.

"Those are things which tell the name and number of the players," Whizzer informed him. "You can't tell the horses without a score card."

"I never heard of such a thing," blandly retorted Harmon.

But the Whizzer is not one to be turned down that easily. "Well, what about the starting lineups?" he asked "Do you have those?"

The guy on the loud speaker will give you the lineups after while," returned the co-operative? Mr. Harmon.

But the climax was reached when Whizzer asked "Who carried the ball on that play?"

"Do I have to cover the game for both of us?" Harmon roared

"But I fixed him," says Whizzer. "We had a spotter for our team and Sandusky didn't, so the next time Harmon asked us who carried the ball, I just told the spotter to say nothing."

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK—(Wide World) — You'd be surprised at how many folks hereabouts think they won't have another chance to see a world series for a long time . . . maybe that explains those tremendous crowds at the stadium . . . Probably half of each squad will be in the armed forces before another season

TODAY'S GUEST STARS.

Frank Graham, New York Sun: "Those who said that the Cardinals would give the Yankees a terrific tussle now are revealed as having been guilty of an understatement."

EXPERT OPINION.

Looks as if old Mike Gonzales was the champion series forecaster . . . he said: "Maybe we lose one, maybe, two, but no more." . . . This department hit the number of games right on the nose—but had the wrong team and plenty of company in picking the Yanks . . . only five of the experts polled by the A P. before the series named the Cards and no one said fewer than six games for them.

Cadets Finally Scored On

But Xenia Home Boys Continue Win Streak.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The spotlight plays on two Miami Valley teams this week in Ohio's high school football drama.

The two headliners are Dayton Oakwood in Class A, the state's No. 1 scoring aggregation with 163 for three contests, and the Class B Cadets from Xenia O. S. & S. O. home, who have bowled over three top-flight foes in stretching their winning streak to 21 games.

The Cadets, who piled up 359 to 0 for the opposition a year ago to lead the state in both offense and defense, finally surrendered a touchdown last weekend, but triumphed over Dayton Northridge 48 to 6, with Halfback Ray Pitzer getting four touchdowns.

Oakwood, after rolling over Greenville 52 to 0, and Wilmington 59 to 0, stayed on the heavy-total trail last week with a 52-0 conquest of Piqua Central—the worst defeat Coach G. P. Wertz has suffered since taking over the Piquad reins in 1925.

Quarterback Johnny Sauer, sparkplug of Coach E. T. (Ed) Cook's Oakwoods, continued his point-gathering activities against Piqua with four touchdowns and five conversions, giving him 52 markers for three tilts.

Massillon's mighty Tigers, state title claimants the last seven years, continued to prowl with a 40 to 6 win over Nebraska's state champs from Lincoln—the 46th straight game without defeat for the Stark county powerhouse. Bob Graber, Massillon back, intercepted a pass and raced 85 yards for the week's longest touchdown run.

The most thrilling touchdown of the week-end, however, was contributed by Don Westover of East Palestine. He grabbed the opening kickoff and scooted 80 yards for the marker that defeated Leetonia 7-6, ending that club's winning streak at 12.

Mifflin and Martins Ferry also saw 12-game victory stretches broken. Mifflin allowed its first score in a dozen contests as it lost 7-0 to Hilliards. Martins Ferry dropped a 14-13 verdict to Wheeling, W. Va. Ferrians insist their players became seasick crossing the Ohio, but Capt. Bill Young's illness was one reason for the loss.

Greenfield's long undefeated string, reaching back to 1939 and marred only by a tie, finally was cracked by London, 13 to 7.

While those teams were losing, however, several others continued to bowl over all foes. Tiltonsville beat Mingo 26-0 for its 18th straight; Bergholz whipped Toronto 14-0, and Toledo Libbey smothered Middletown 20-0 for 12 straight, Stow beat Kent State 13-7, Canton Lehman upset Kent Roosevelt 27-7, Louisville nosed out Sebring 7-6, and Cleveland Lincoln trounced St Ignatius 20-0 to run the victors string to 11; Fredericktown reached 10 with a 59-7 win over Centerburg, as did Barberton's Magics with a 6-0 triumph over Akron North.

East Liverpool, with three in a row for the year, including Friday's 27-0 jaunt over Salem, looms as one of the eastern sector's best squads, while Gallipolis, a bit down the river came up with the week's biggest score—72 to 0 over Nelsonville—believed to be the biggest margin in Southeastern Ohio league history.

Galion scored its first North-Central league win in four years, 8-0 over Shelby, while Marion Harding yielded its first point to a foe in that loop since mid 1940 in beating a crippled Mt. Vernon team 20-7.

Dave Barbosa of Greentown, with nine touchdowns and four extra points for a total of 58 in three games leads the state's scorers, but Ollie Cline, Fredericktown's 185-pound junior halfback, has 55 points in two tilts Cline counted five touchdowns in the 59-7 rout of Centerburg Other top-flight scorers include. Jack Bickel of Newark and Regis Leonard of Tiltonsville 54; Bill Cantrell, Gallipolis 40, Harley Smith, Akron East, 39; Ed Menke, Marietta 33 and Jow Dawson, East Liverpool, 31

Two Akron players were injured during the week-end tilts. Garfield's All-City tackle, Ralph Van Horn, suffering a brain concussion in the 13-0 loss to Kenmore, and Tom Weigel, South halfback suffering a broken leg in the 32-12 setback at the hands of Steubenville.

ST. LOUIS PREPARES WELCOME FOR HEROES

ST. LOUIS—(U.P.)—The world champion St. Louis Cardinals will get a rousing reception when they return home today, but President Sam Breaden has turned down suggestions for a parade and victory dinner because of the war.

The welcoming ceremonies will be confined to the vicinity of Union Station, where the team will be greeted by Mayor William Dee Becker and each player introduced to the spectators.

The Cardinal office said the club would arrive in St. Louis by tran at 4:58 p. m. (CWT) today.

Bucks Favored Over Trojans

Southern Cal Hopes To Upset Ohio Gridders.

By RODGER NELSON

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Ohio State's looking-better-every-day Buckeyes play host Saturday to Southern California in a game that could provide a great upset providing the Trojans win.

Ohio State, on the basis of games played to date contrasted to Southern Cal's victoryless record in two games, will undoubtedly enter the fray heavy favorites to be returned the victor. And that is just what the men of Troy are hoping.

It will be recalled that just a year ago, the Bucks journeyed to the West Coast, and while not decided underdogs, Coach Paul Brown's "poor little Bucks" were decidedly not favorites. The Trojans apparently took the game lightly, Ohio State was primed for the "kill" result, Ohio State, 33; Southern Cal, 0.

It was one of the most humiliating defeats ever suffered by a Trojan team, humiliating with emphasis when the crowd even began to cheer the Ohio State unstoppable offense and laud the noteworthy defense of the "easterners."

It is with all this in mind that Southern Cal moves into Columbus this week-end—and they have the makings of a team capable of pulling such an upset In fact, it was quite an upset last Saturday when they rebounded from the Tulane loss and tied their perennial jinx foes, the Washington Huskies.

The team is primarily an offensive unit, playing with a score-more-than-the-opponents attitude. If everything runs true to form Saturday's game should provide the anticipated gathering of 60,000 with another great offensive duel, something which is becoming more common in Ohio stadium, game by game.

A starlit backfield composed of Mickey McArdle and Bob Trout at the halves, Mel Bleeker at quarter and Paul Taylor at full is complemented by two great sophomores, Jim Hardy and Howard Callanan.

Mainstay of the line is Norm Verry, 260-pound giant who the Trojans are touting as all-American material.

The men of Troy present an extremist team — they are either very good on any given Saturday —or they are 'not so good." It never seems that they are an "average" team, giving out with good solid football The team is either sensational or lackadaisical.

If they are "on" this week, the Buckeyes had better throw all their glowing press clippings of the brilliant Indiana triumph out of the window and gird themselves for an afternoon of hell-bent-for-election football If they are "off" the game will run true to the "guesssperts" predictions and result in Ohio State's third consecutive victory.

The Buckeyes spent yesterday's practice session principally in a skull drill—looking at pictures of the Indiana game and reviewing mistakes. After the indoor chores, they proceeded to the practice field to add a couple of new plays to the offensive manouvers and went through them hurriedly.

The drill was an extremely light one as Coach Brown wanted to give his team a chance to recuperate from Saturday's bruising contest. No serious injuries were sustained in the Hoosier tilt but there was no denying that at the conclusion of the afternoon's play, both teams were physically spent

NEW YORK — (INS) — Johnny Beazley, the greatest kid pitcher in the National league in years, will be measured for a U. S. marines' uniform in the near future.

The 23-year-old Nashville, Tenn., lad, who yesterday pitched the St. Louis Cardinals to their amazing upset victory over the highly favored N. Y. Yankees in the 1942 world series said yesterday that he intends to enlist.

* * *

Johnny, who is the sole support of his mother, is not sure just when he'll do so but left no doubt that he expects to be in the service very soon.

Jubiland Cards Celebrate In Clubhouse

World series victors, the St. Louis Cardinals whoop it up in their clubhouse after they had won the blue ribbon classic in New York from the New York Yankees, four games to one. Manager Billy Southworth of the Cards is held aloft, center, as President Ford Frick of the National league, left, and Vice President Branch Rickey, right, look on. Rickey is a St. Louis Cardinal vice president.

TACKLES HURT

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — (INS)— Paul Walker, sophomore end, and Richard Tackett, rookie center, were added to the Indiana varsity today replacing Bob Zimmy and Fred Huff, two ranking left tackles who were injured in the Ohio State game.

LANGHURST INJURED

IOWA CITY, Ia.—(INS)—Injuries to two key backfield men, Jim Langhurst and Bus Mertes, plagued the Iowa Seahawks today as they prepared for their third Western Conference row against Michigan at Ann Arbor Saturday.

Emerge As Heroes Of Series

Here are the three Cardinal heroes of the fifth and final game of the world series in New York. Snapped in the clubhouse after the Cards had copped the world's championship from the New York Yankees, George Kurowski, left, Enos Slaughter, center, and Johnny Beazley put on their best smile for the camera. Kurowski's ninth inning home run with one aboard was the margin of victory for the Cards, who won, 4 to 2. Slaughter earlier contributed a homer and Beazley was the winning pitcher, hurling his second victory of the series.

Kurowski's Homer Puts End to Yankee Reign

Rookie Pitcher Beazley Rates as Real Hero of World Series

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK—(AP)—If it were not for the probability that the war will break it up, the St. Louis Cardinals' club that completed the job of wrecking the New York Yankees yesterday might go tearing on to win ranking with the greatest teams in baseball history.

It is a son-of-a-gun of a baseball club—much better than anyone suspected. There is no team in either league at this time with anything approaching the all-around punch, pitching and polish of the new world champions.

On the off chance that somebody might think we are going overboard on the bold young men of Manager Billy Southworth, a few figures might be in order:

Through yesterday's deciding game at the stadium, which was won by 4-2 on a two-run homer by George Kurowski third baseman, in the ninth inning, the Cardinals won 54 of their last 57 contests in the 1942 season. That comes to an altitudinous winning average of .824 down the stretch.

They slugged their way to victory in their last six straight games in the league race, paused only to drop the world series opener in St. Louis, and then battered the Yankees into submission in four straight. Some time, some team might have set a record that looks comparable in print, but we doubt that the competition was as tough as that bowled over by the Cardinals.

With all due respect for the Brooklyn Dodgers, it would have been a shame if the Cards' sensational charge had fallen short of the National league pennant.

It is doubtful the Dodgers could have beaten the Yankees. They lacked pitching. As the series unfolded it became obvious that the Cardinals not only had all the dash and color which had become their hallmark, but that they also possessed great pitching in quantity.

Beazley, the solemn 23-year old rookie from Nashville, who defeated the Yankees in the second game to square the series and then came back to clinch the championship yesterday, probably deserved to be called the series star. He pitched two great games and showed an astonishing store of poise for a youngster.

But the Cardinals' line-up was studded with stars. It strictly was a team victory.

As for the Yankees, they simply ran into a bun of game, hard-playing, hungry youngsters. After they won the second game at St. Louis, the Cardinals actually believed they would take three straight at the stadium here, and said so. Those of us who heard them thought it merely was youthful exuberance. We didn't quite know the Cardinals—then.

The most inexplicable collapse of the classic was contributed by Joe Gordon, the Yank second baseman. Standout of the '41 series, when he practically beat the Brooklyns single-handed, Gordon made only two hits in 21 times at bat against Cardinal pitching.

A world series always has to provide one good opportunity for the second-guessers to ply their trade, and this was no exception. Last night and today the men who had had years of experience in managing from the grandstand were demanding to know why Joe McCarthy, the Yankees' pilot, permitted Ruffing to pitch to Kurowski in yesterday's ninth inning.

The situation was this: Walker Cooper had opened the inning with a single and had been sacrificed to second by Hopp. Coming up was Kurowski, who earlier in the game had slammed a long one into the left field stands that sailed foul only by a few feet.

Following Kurowski was Marty Marion, a very inconspicuous hitter, and the pitcher. By walking Kurowski, the Yanks would have set up the making of a double play, insisted the men who have made a study of such situations. But what, they moaned, did McCarthy do but pitch to Kurowski, with the results aforementioned.

Phil Rizzuto Leads Hitters

Gordon Becomes Goat of Series at Bat.

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK—(U P)—In cleaning up the press box after the world series, we discovered that:

Phil "Scooter" Rizzuto of the Yanks, smallest player in the classic, walked off with the biggest batting average, .381 We hope he bats that well against the Japs after joining the navy soon . . .

Meanwhile Joe "Flash" Gordon, star of the 1941 Dodgers-Yanks series, became the goat in this one, getting only two hits in 21 trips to the plate, and being thrown out in costly fashion in the ninth inning of the final contest.

Casey Stengel of the Braves insists the Cards are a "track team," not a ball club. He says they're so bloomin' fast on the bases that, one day at Braves field, Johnny Hopp walked and when the pitcher pulled his cap a bit tighter "and looked up to watch Hopp, he learned to his dismay that Johnny was on third."

The Cards were the youngest team ever to win the series and, likely, the lowest-salaried outfit to turn the trick in 20 years. It is reported that no player on the club gets more than $10,000 a year and that most of them get less than half that To some of those "chain-gangers," the $2,841 difference between a winning player's share and a loser's cut looked almost like a year's salary. No wonder the money-hungry lads were inspired.

THEATERS

Comedy With Music.

Fred Astaire employs fireworks in one of his new dance routines in "Holiday Inn," the Ohio picture in which he stars with Bing Crosby. It's all a part of the film's Fourth of July celebraton at the Connecticut Inn opened by Bing for operation on holidays only. The dancer and crooner resort to all kinds of ruses to keep Marjorie Reynolds, also a singer and dancer, on their side when attractive offers beckon. Irving Berlin's music fills the show and the cast includes Walter Abel and Hattie McDaniel.

War Film.

The story of Russia's military might which halted the onrush of the Nazi armies in 1941 is pictured in "The World At War," U. S. government film at the Madison. The film shows how the people marshalled their resources and united in a vast program of industrialization to stem the tide. Mickey Rooney's new comedy, "A Yank at Eton," shores the bill. Rooney is up to a bag of new tricks as the American enrolled on the British campus.

Society Comedy.

"Her Cardboard Lover," co-starring Norma Shearer and Robert Taylor opens today at the Ritz. Gaily telling the story of a glamor girl who employed a charming young man to keep her separated from a playboy-suitor the picture presents George Sanders as the playboy and Taylor as the young man who adheres to duty. Frank McHugh and Elizabeth Patterson are in the cast. "Murder In the Big House" is the second attraction.

Farce Comedy.

George Brent plays the harassed husband of Joan Bennett in "Twin Beds," comedy at the Park. Miss Bennett's zest for good causes lands her in all sorts of predicaments until a marital upheaval threatens. Mischa Auer, Una Merkel and Ernest Truex are in the cast. "Bombs Over Burma," the co-feature starring Anna May Wong deals with the efforts of a Chinese teacher to apprehend a Jap spy.

BUDGET YOUR SPENDING THE GOVERNMENT URGES

Tells how you can help win the war while helping yourself

"On the home front you can tell where you stand," says the Government, "not by looking at a map stuck with thumbtacks but by looking at your budget."

Few of us realize how much depends on what each individual family does with its money. No family can do its patriotic duty without a financial plan. And the Government has published a budget plan for you to use to marshal your dollars to help win the war.

A tested plan for you

This budget plan wasn't developed by theorists. It is based upon the experience of successful families. It has been thoroughly tested. Thousands of families are enthusiastic about it. That's why we have reprinted it and want to send you a free copy.

This plan gives you a simple way to stretch your dollars over war bonds, contributions to USO and the Red Cross, higher taxes and increased living expenses. Here, too, is a way to clean up your debts—something the President has suggested as part of the national program to keep down the cost of living.

Simple to use

"To operate this budget," says the Consumers' Guide, the magazine published by the Government, "you don't need to do much more than people who are careful with their money usually do when payday comes around." That's how simple it is. Yet the plan makes certain that each payday you take into account every expense that will have to come out of your next paycheck. It makes you decide what you must save to meet future expenses and what you can get along without.

We believe that this budget method will be helpful to every homemaker trying to make her wartime dollars buy the right food, clothing and living conditions for her family. So we have reprinted the plan exactly as published by the Government. We shall be glad to send you a free copy.

Get this help without obligation

With the Government's budget method we shall enclose a copy of our Budget Calendar. This is a handy workbook published to help families plan their spending. It provides just what you need to put the Government's plan to work for you. There are enough work sheets for every payday in the year. The Budget Calendar and the Government plan will be sent to you without obligation. Ask for both at the local Household Finance office (see your telephone book for address). Or send the coupon. There will be no solicitation or follow-up.

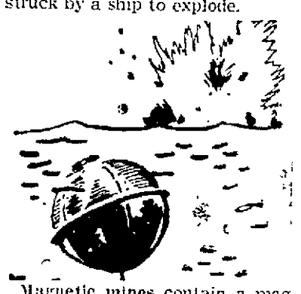
What You Buy With WAR BONDS



Mines, either "floating" or magnetic, are probably the most effective weapons to guard approaches to our harbors. So-called "floating" mines are anchored by a steel cable and ride below the surface of the water. They must be struck by a ship to explode.

Magnetic mines contain a magnetic needle which completes an electric circuit when the steel hull of a ship approaches. Our Navy uses thousands of these mines and their cost, for that reason, runs into the thousands of dollars. But your purchase of War Bonds will help pay for these guardians of our coastal waters. INVEST AT LEAST TEN PERCENT of your income in War Bonds every payday and become a member of the patriotic Ten Percent Club.

WHY—MY DEAR?
WELL—DAD WORKS IN AN AIRPLANE FACTORY—HE'S HELPING TO WIN THE WAR—I WORRIED HIM SO MUCH WHEN I GOT HIT—HE LOST TWO DAYS AND THEY NEEDED HIM
IT'S MY DUTY TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES TO GET EVERY KID IN BARNESVILLE TO JOIN THE "JUST KIDS SAFETY CLUB"—SO THEIR DADS CAN WORK TO WIN THE WAR WITHOUT WORRYING ABOUT THEM
A FINE IDEA!
WITH YOUNGSTERS LIKE THAT—WE DON'T HAVE TO WORRY ABOUT HIROHITO HITLER OR THE OTHER GUY—I FORGET HIS NAME

STOCK MARKET PRICES APPEAR BIT MIXED UP

Westinghouse Included In Group Boasting Slight Upward Gains.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Early stock market prices were slightly mixed today as some profit taking on the lengthy recovery was resumed.

Up a shade at a moderately active opening were American Telephone, Du Pont and Westinghouse. Declines were posted for Chrysler, Anaconda, U. S. Steel and Boeing.

Trend analysts noted the announcement of the war production board that conversion of the automobile industry from peace-time production had progressed to such an extent that in July it devoted 95.1 per cent of its efforts to direct armament work. This was an increase of 3.5 per cent over June and 14.8 per cent over May.

Attention was given the federal reserve summary disclosing that during the week ended last Wednesday loans to industry, commerce and agriculture by member banks in 101 cities dropped $11,000,000. Further repayment of corporate borrowing again was the principal cause of the recession.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Broadway on Saturday Night.

(And Every Night Is Saturday Night on Broadway!)

No, you have never seen anything like Broadway these wartime nights. It takes your breath away. It used to do that with lights, if you were a stranger; now, if you are a native, it does it with people, thousands and thousands of people jostling each other and spilling off the sidewalk into the streets, reminding you with force that people are more thrilling than lights. Suddenly you realize you are walking on a street you have known for years, but it is dark and unfamiliar, and those who jostle you are strangers, and you are filled with much wonder that so many have come so far to this avenue of movies and popcorn and ten-cents-a-dance and hokum and barrooms and photos-while-you-wait.

Kilgallen

Yet there is a thrill to just walking along this street. On Saturday night it is all the mardi gras you've ever seen. It is New Year's eve and the American Legion convention and your uncle's golden wedding anniversary and the night after the Big Game with old State U. all mixed up and dropped plunk! into the area of a few blocks under a dark night sky. It is Joe Doakes—a million of him—on the loose.

Who is this Joe Doakes who comes to Broadway every Saturday night? Well, he is Pvt. Joe Doakes of the U. S. Army and Flight Lieutenant Joe Doakes of the RAF, and Mr. Joe Doakes, a defense worker, and First Class Seaman J. Doakes, U.S.N. If he can get one, he's got a girl with him, and in his pockets there's a jingle, jangle, jingle.

The night club owners, the souvenir storekeepers, the Main Stem "regulars" don't know what to make of it. The famous places are breaking all records; the dumps are doing fine: try and get into a movie palace. There is more finger-crossing and wood-knocking among the entrepreneurs of Broadway these days than anywhere in the world.

The Latin Quarter "takes" $8,000 to $10,000 on a single Saturday night. Sherman Billingsley shakes his head with a happy awe when he admits that a couple of evenings ago the Stork club had the biggest night in its history, including all New Year eves. Leon and Eddie's has had to buy a new velvet rope. Business at Jack Dempsey's is so phenomenal that a local comedian had added to his act an imitation of a timid soul trying to lift his drink to his lips at Dempsey's.

The answer seems to be that everybody has a pocketful of war money, and Broadway has something for everybody. It has big-time musicals, with the greatest stars and the most beautiful girls and the most lavish settings in the world, and it has gardenia corsages for twenty-five cents apiece. It has taffy apples and cut-rate books and all-night drug stores and roller skating palaces and penny arcades. It has swing bands and bowling alleys and all-night movies, and places that sell a cup of coffee for a nickel.

The street is dark, but the moon is bright and business is great. Shoe-shine boys peddle Victory shines with the price upped from a nickel to a dime. A half-dozen bus terminals in the Forties pour khaki kids and their girls onto the boulevard of adventure. Peddlers hawk phosphorescent lapel buttons, "so yuh won't get run over in the dark." Father Duffy's statue stands patient guard over a blackened Broadway.

Broadway has never been like this, not in my lifetime, not in yours. Street booths have girls in uniform selling war bonds, loudspeakers outside narrow music shops blare melodies for the Harlem kids who dance for pennies on the sidewalk; at a shop that manufactures front pages you can get a headline saying that Hitler is dead.

Fighting lads dig through their change outside the Gaiety, which, no longer burlesque, now features Hedy Lamarr in "Ecstacy." There are service-star flags in every shop window and restaurant. There are standees at every hit show, and there are more hit shows than the town has seen in a long time.

Broadway's eyes are dim, but its heart beats tempo that is faster than a Sammy Renick steed, and there is more brightness in its laughter than there was in a million lights.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD— Directors, just directors:

Once Leo McCarey ("Once Upon a Honeymoon") sold a story to Sam Goldwyn for $50,000, expecting to cash some more heavy chips for the job of directing it. Sam crossed him up — William Wyler got the assignment. But things did not go well, and midway through the filming of "The Cowboy and the Lady" Wyler surrendered the direction. Producer Sam approached John Ford, who would have none of it. Producer Sam then approached Leo McCarey. "I'll give you $75,000 to finish the picture," said Sam to Leo.

Coons

"No, thanks," said Leo McCarey.

But why?" asked Sam

"I don't like the story," said Leo McCarey. . . .

EDWARD DMYTRYK ("Seven Miles from Alcatraz") is a quiet, studious young man who, for some strange reason, draws thrillers like "Seven Miles" and makes very creditable jobs of them. I say strange because Dmytryk's favorite game, which he plays well and deliberately, is chess. And his hobby is the study of Chinese. . . .

Irving Reis is a young director from radio. After a couple of "B" pictures Irving was selected by Damon Runyon to make "The Big Street." After the preview of this typical Runyonesque fable, which was applauded highly, I saw Irving Reis standing alone around the corner from the theater. He looked nervous, miserable, and forlorn, just as if he were headed for Skid Row instead of the Big Street of Hollywood. . . .

RAOUL WALSH ("Desperate Journey") is another former actor. He might have been an actor today but for a jackrabbit. En route by car to a desert location, Walsh hit the creature, sent it flying through the windshield, lost an eye from shattered glass. They sent for Warner Baxter, a "washed up" actor, to play Walsh's part in "In Old Arizona"—and unwashed him. . . .

Lewis Milestone ("The Edge of Darkness") is looking for a role for Lewis Milestone — a token role. More than 10 years ago, when he directed "All Quiet on the Western Front," Milestone played one of the screen's most famous scenes. The picture ended with Lew Ayres the German soldier in the trench, extending his hand to touch a vagrant butterfly—just as he was shot. The hand, in close-up, was Lewis Milestone's. . . .

John Larkin ("Quiet, Please! Murder") is a writer directing his own story. Chick Colins, stunt man, asked Producer Walter Morosco if he were trying to develop another Orson Welles. "Orson Welles, hell!" said Producer Morosco "Larkin's directing because he's the only man in the world who knows what his story's about!"

SCORES BRICKER ONCE MORE ON STATE SURPLUS

Dem Chairman Hits Speech By Governor Predicting 20-Million Balance.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Chairman Darrell C. Jones of the Democratic state committee said today a speech by Gov. John W. Bricker praising his administration's treasury surplus was "a feeble attempt to defend an indefensible position."

Bricker, a Republican seeking a third term, asserted in a radio speech read for him last night that the state would have a balance of at least $20,000,000 by year-end and saw in it sound insurance against new taxes in the face of shrinking revenue.

"In the first place," Jones replied, "there can be no surplus in Ohio government when the administration follows legal procedure. The constitution forbids levying of taxes except for necessary expenditures.

"In the second place, the man in the state house resorted to a shop-worn political trick to try to make a vague point. He stated that Mr. McSweeney (John McSweeney, Bricker's Democratic opponent) 'proposes to spread around the surplus'. . . .

"Mr. McSweeney has said that he will distribute among the subdivisions the sales tax money which rightful belongs to them and which is being wrongfully withheld."

The governor's ill with a cold, and Atty. Ge n. Thomas J. Herbert read his speech over a radio hookup.

"If one were catering to his personal vanity he would spend it (the surplus)," Bricker asserted. "The money-spenders would slap you on the back and say that is great—you are a real fellow. But that is not my money. It is yours. Every dollar ought to be spent in the interest of all taxpayers of the state and not a class or a group of them."

Former Governor Martin L. Davey spoke in McSweeney's behalf as the Democratic gubernatorial candidate appeared at Kent last night to criticize Bricker's "lack of cooperation with the war effort."

At a Warren rally, McSweeney declared Bricker "took $2 000 000 for the poor relief fund" to set up the state's defense program.

NURSES LEAVE

Commissioned Ensigns, They Go on Active Duty.

Two Mansfield nurses attached to the staff at General hospital for the past four years were to go on active duty today as navy nurses in the Norfolk Naval hospital at Richmond, Va.

Miss Ann Menrath and Miss Mary Turick, both of whom resided with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Menrath, 627 Maple street, recently received their ensign commissions. They left Mansfield for Richmond last night.

Both nurses had their training at Mansfield General hospital and remained there on duty after graduation in 1938. Miss Menrath was first floor supervisor and Miss Turick, assistant supervisor in surgery.

MINERS' UNION CONVENTION ON

Look to Lewis to Take Lead In Settling Wage Increases, Longer Week Problems.

(By Associated Press)

CINCINNATI — The United Mine Workers of America today looked for guidance from their fiery leader, John L. Lewis, as the union's 2,800 delegates opened a two-week convention fraught with wartime problems.

From their chieftain, UMW representatives from 26 states and Canada sought leadership in dealing with such convention problems as wage increases, a request by Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes for a lengthening of their 35-hour week, a growing manpower shortage and a widening breach with the CIO.

Lewis, in a pre-convention press conference, asserted a majority of UMW locals want wages increases of about $2 and indicated a wage-bargainng policy might be determined by delegates when he pointed out that President Roosevelt's recent wage freezing order contains ample provision for the elimination of inequality and adjustment of substandard wages.

He asserted also that miners' wages were below those of other industrial workers, and that the cost of living had mounted more rapidly in mining communites than in industrial centers.

Secretary Ickes' recent statement that a longer work week for miners was "imperative" was challenged by Lewis who expressed a belief the nation's estimated 1943 requirements could be met without resorting to a six-day week.

Approves Truck Route In Waste Disposal Plan

SHELBY — City council approved a route for the Roethlisberger Transfer company to follow in carrying acid from the Ohio Seamless Tube company plant to a sewer disposal basin, to be built north of the city, when it met Monday night at the city hall for a regular session.

The route, going over streets that are not state highways, had to be approved by the council before it could be used, city officials said

The trucks will be used as a part of the system to be set up by the Tube company to get rid of the waste ferrous sulphate that has been overflowing the Black Fork river.

The council also approved a resolution transferring $500 from the general fund to the park fund.

ARMY TO TAKE OVER CLEVELAND PUBLIC HALL, GIANT STADIUM

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND — Two of Cleveland's most prized municipal structures—its $25,000,000 Public Hall and its huge stadium—soon will go into war service, along with the city's downtown lakefront.

The army air force will take over these properties in about a month for establishment of a maintenance school, it was announced by Col. R. J. Mertz, automotive officer of the air service command.

The 20-year-old Public Hall will be converted into classrooms and quarters for air force personnel.

This means the two-block-long building will be closed to the public after the army takes it over.

Stadium concourses will house equipment, but this will not interfere with the $2,600,000 structure's use for sports events or other civilian affairs.

The lakefront area extending from the stadium to East 40th street will be employed for operating and driving instructions.

It was not disclosed publicly how many men would be quartered in the hall.

Col. Mertz said he saw no reason why the National Metal congress could not meet in the hall next week, as scheduled, but indicated it would not be available for the American College of Surgeons' convention next month.

FUNERAL SET

Rites For J. Leo Hartmann To Be Conducted Wednesday.

Funeral services for J. Leo Hartmann, retired Richland and Ashland county school teacher, who died Monday at his home, 36 Stewart avenue, will be conducted Wednesday at 1 p. m. at the Wappner funeral home.

Fraternal rites will be conducted by the Mansfield Commandery, Knights Templar, and Rev. E. G. Corwin of the First Methodist church, will be the officiating pastor. Mr. Hartmann had been active in church and Masonic work for many years.

Burial will be at Savannah, O., where Mr. Hartmann began his formal education for teaching that was to continue 44 years. He taught 28 years in Mansfield and for four years was principal of John Simpson Junior high school.

TOLD OF DEMISE OF H. J. HALLEY

Word of the death of Henry J. Halley, former Mansfield resident who left here in 1934 to move to Englishtown, N. J., has been received here from a son, Herbert Halley of Matawan, N. J.

Mr. Halley was associated with the old Aultman and Taylor Machinery company at its branches in Denver and Kansas City, Mo., and was later with the home office in Mansfield until the company went out of business.

He then became associated with the Hughes-Keenan company of Mansfield and remained there until he moved to New Jersey.

Surviving are the son, Herbert Halley, and two sisters, Mrs. E. M. Edwards of Kansas City, Mo., and Mrs. W. H. Leonard of Los Angeles.

$10,000 DAMAGE ACTION FILED

Bellville Man Brings Suit For Son's Injuries.

Garrett Partin, Bellville R. D. 2, today sought $10,000 damages for injuries suffered by his 16-year-old son, Robert, June 5, 1941, when he was struck by a car on U. S. Route 42 at Orchard Park.

Partin filed the action in common pleas court, naming Harold F. Barr, Mt. Gilead, alleged driver of the car, as the defendant. Attorneys Weldon and Huston and Kenneth Agee represent the plaintiff.

Partin contends Barr was driving at excessive speed and did not have his car under control.

RITES ARE HELD

Mrs. W. J. Canahan, Former Mansfield Resident, Dead.

Funeral services were conducted yesterday in St. Stephen's Catholic church in Port Huron, Mich., for Mrs. W. J. Canahan, a former resident of Mansfield, who died at her home in Port Huron last Friday night. Mrs. Canahan is survived by her husband and one son and one daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Canahan left Mansfield approximately 20 years ago. He had been associated with the Central Fruit company, here.

Up and Down THE STREET

Red Cross surgical dressing volunteers are striking an average of 2,200 bandages a day although they hit a new high in production yesterday by completing 3,675 dressings. Work five days a week is carried on in the surgical dressings department by about 25 volunteers exclusive of evening shifts that work twice a week. Mrs. E. M. Eichen, surgical dressing chairman, is aided by a corps of supervisors who follow a regular schedule each week.

Mansfield's collective conduct may be getting better but even so, Police Chief Thomas M. Bell was concerned today over the lack of complaints received or arrests made by Mansfield police during the last 24 hours. Only two "squawks" were recorded during the day yesterday and but one arrest during the night. In the traffic division two minor accident reports were recorded. The lone arrest was that of a "repeater" charged with intoxication. Generally, the daily average is around 15 reports.

It's an every-member canvass this week by Mansfield police department officers and patrolmen who are "pushing" tickets for their annual Police Ball in the North Lake park Coliseum next Monday evening. During the last two weeks members of the arrangements committee have devoted off-duty hours to the mailing of letters, with tickets enclosed, to hundreds of patrons. Starting yesterday direct-action sales were commenced by each member of the force. Royce Stoenner's orchestra from Kansas City will furnish music for dancing from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m.

One of the big problems of the county election board is the city resident who fails to register until it is too late and then complains because he isn't permitted to vote. Board clerks had an ideal example of the "putter-offer" last night, the deadline for registering for the November election. Just as clerks were closing the doors of the office in the courthouse, a man rushed up and asked to register. They asked him where he lived. "Just a few doors down the street," he said.

GET BREATHER

Personal Taxpayers Won't Pay Until End of Month.

Collection of Richland county personal taxes for the last half of the year probably won't get under way before the end of October, County Treasurer Charles C. Payne said today.

Statements will start going out to property holders about the last of the month, the treasurer said, and the collection will start as soon as the statements are in the mail.

It won't be necessary for personal property owners to make a trip to the courthouse to list their holdings. That was done during the first-half collection, Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said.

Personal property produces considerably less revenue than real estate in the county and the tax collection period usually is much shorter than the time required to collect the real estate levies.

HEART ATTACK CAUSES DEATH

John H. Gongwer, 64, Dies At Home Near Ashland.

ASHLAND—John Henry Gongwer, 64, retired farmer succumbed to a heart attack at his home on Pleasant hill road, west of Ashland, yesterday. He was a native of Ashland county and had lived in this vicinity most of his life.

Surviving besides the widow are two brothers LeRoy, of Massillon; and Dewey of Mansfield; and two sisters, Mrs. Edward Dove, of Ashland; and Mrs. Wayne Balliett, of Justice.

Rev. Stanley Johnson, pastor of the Christian church of Greenwich, will conduct funeral services Thursday at 2 p. m. at the Paradise Hill United Brethren church of which Mr. Gongwer was a member. Burial will be in Strickland cemetery.

FDR ACTS TO PUT CURB ON PROFITEERING

OPA Officials Say They Now Can Order Decreases In Excessive Prices.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt has armed Price Administrator Leon Henderson with broad new power to prevent wartime profiteering by business and industry, official sources revealed today.

In setting up the new economic stabilization program over the week-end, the president directed Henderson to use as one yardstick in fixing, reducing or increasing prices the prevention of "unreasonable or exhorbitant profits." He left it up to Henderson to determine what constitutes excessive profits.

Office of price administration officials said this constituted a new and broad grant of authority for the OPA administrator to step in and lower prices below maximum levels fixed for an industry.

OPA could not intervene heretofore, for example, unless price rises had occurred or were threatened. Many industries, it was said, now operate within and in some instances below the maximum OPA price schedules, and still make profits which Henderson may regard as excessive. That situation is made possible by heavy government purchases and increased purchasing power in the hands of the people as a result of multi-billion dollar war spending.

The order will have its chief effect upon the segment of industry still engaged in civilian production and upon other enterprises disassociated from the war effort.

Officials said OPA had no intention of using the new authority to interfere with the cost of tanks, ships, guns, planes, bullets and other weapons of war.

OPA activity for the present probably will be centered on conferences with farm and fruit industry representatives concerning permanent maximum price ceilings to be placed over products hitherto excluded from price controls. Sixty-day temporary price tops over these commodities went into force yesterday.

Henderson signed an order yesterday extending rent ceilings, previously ordered in more than 300 defense-rental areas, to 45 states.

Predicts Return To Natural Rubber After End Of War

AKRON —(U.P.)— F. A. Seiberling, founder of two rubber companies, observed his 83rd birthday anniversary today and told newspaper men that the use of synthetic rubber would be limited for the most part to the war emergency.

"Don't worry, we will get rubber from the Far East again," Seiberling said. "The government is building synthetic rubber plants which will probably be run as public utilities after the war, but we will revert to the use of natural rubber as soon as possible."

Asked what preparations should be made for peace, he said: "When it comes there will be a period of adjustment that will be hard."

"It will take a year or more to put the production lines back in order, lost dealers will need to be lined up again, and returned soldiers put back to work," he said. "Automobile tire production will be slowed down because there will not be the former tremendous replacement business for some time after the war."

RUSSIAN RELIEF PUSH CONTINUES TO PERIL NAZIS

Army Driving Down From Don River Gains, Stalingrad Defenders Hang on.

made 12 futile attacks in the industrial section yesterday, trying to break through to a broad boulevard that leads to the heart of the city.

The Soviet noon communique reported the smashing of seven more tank and infantry attacks, apparently in northwest Stalingrad.

It was the 43rd day of the battle of Stalingrad, and winter, as well as Timoshenko's drive above Stalingrad, was threatening the Germans.

Prisoners, according to front-line dispatches, said the German high command realized that time was short and had ordered a decision at any cost, mounting fiercer and fiercer assaults.

The noon communique said Soviet soldiers were fighting actively—meaning they were on the offensive—on the Leningrad front, and had wiped out two companies of Germans.

(Radio Leningrad was heard in London broadcasting that 4,000 Germans had been killed.)

"Northwest of Stalingrad (where Timoshenko was advancing) Soviet troops advanced somewhat after heavy fighting. The enemy counter-attacked several times and was repulsed," the Soviet noon communique said.

"In the course of a German counter-attack, the Germans lost about 400 killed and 23 machine guns destroyed."

The Russians continued to make the Germans suffer heavily in the Mozdok area of the eastern Caucasus For weeks, the Germans have been trying to drive a few miles to the Grozny oil fields.

Still entrenched in the outskirts of Novorossisk, Soviet troops counter-attacked, wiped out a battalion (500 men) of Germans, destroyed two tanks, and occupied a hill, the communique said.

Having occupied Novorossisk, a Black sea naval base, more than two weeks ago, the Germans have been trying to drive down the smooth coastal road that leads to the oil port of Batum

Dispatches said that in the Voroneza area, 350 miles northwest of Stalingrad, the Russians had penetrated a large settlement from three sides and were continuing the advance. They had killed 2,200 of the enemy there in several days.

The noon communique said pilots of the Baltic fleet air arm had raided an enemy airdrome and destroyed on the ground seven planes, damaged 12 Junkers 88's, and shot down three more in air combat.

Churchill Again Mum On Second Front

LONDON—(AP)—Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons today "We are quite clear no statement from his majestty's government is called for at the present time further than those already given" on the question of aid to Russia.

He spoke in response to a question as to whether the government had any statement to make on Premier Joseph Stalin's letter to Henry C. Cassidy, chief of the Associated Press Moscow Bureau.

In the letter, Stalin called upon the Allies to "fulfill their obligations fully and on time."

Asked whether there was the closest integration in staff matters between Russia and Britain, Churchill replied.

"I have really nothing to add—certainly not on the spur of the moment — to the carefully weighed statement I have made on this subject, and I would strongly advise the house not to press these matters unduly at a period which is certainly significant."

His suggestion "not to press these matters unduly" was in line with his warning last week against speculation on the possible time and place of Allied offensive actions.

RAF Bombers Smash At Western Germany

LONDON — (AP) — A "strong force" of RAF bombers attacked objectives in western Germany last night, an authoritative source said today.

It was the third night raid on Germany this month, Flensburg and the Rhineland having been the targets in raids last Thursday and Friday nights.

Other RAF formations swept across the southeast coast in a steady procession during the night and attacked the occupied channel coast. Explosions and flashes were heard and seen on the British coast.

Report Fascist Sub Has Sunk U. S. S. Mississippi With Torpedo in Bow.

ians said the battleship was hit twice in the bow "and sank in a short time."

The Mississippi is the oldest of three battleships grouped by the United States as the New Mexico class. They are the Idaho and New Mexico, each 33,400 tons, and the 33,000-ton Mississippi, which was completed Dec. 18, 1917.

Each of these battleships mounts 12 14-inch and 12 five-inch guns as her chief weapons and each carries three planes and two catapults from which to launch them.

All three were modernized between 1930 and 1934, when they were fitted with heavier protection including thicker decks and anti-torpedo bulges. During 1941, their anti-aircraft batteries were strengthened and their top-side protection was increased.

HUNT WOMAN IN LAWYER'S DEATH

Manicurist Tells of Red Head In Hotel Room.

DETROIT—(INS)—As one woman was ordered held another 48 hours, police today continued their widespread search for a red-headed woman they have been told was present in the hotel room of Clyde McCoy, Fort Wayne attorney, the night he died.

The one woman being held was 22-year-old Ann James, a hotel manicurist, who was taken into custody last Saturday when she called McCoy's room while authorities were there investigating his death

Miss James has maintained that a red-headed woman visited McCoy's room Friday night and put knock-out drops in his drinks preparatory to robbing him.

"But your giving will provide not only strength for our nation at war; but proof, in a world of violence and greed, that the American people will keep faith with democracy, that we hold inviolate our belief in the infinite worth of the individual human being."

Commando majors named today to direct each of the 13 divisions when the "zero hour" arrives are:

Arlo Smith, retail division; J. O. Hanley, food division, O C. McCormick, construction; Henry Talmadge, automobile, Rudolph Schneider, public service, H. E Homberger, public employes: H. H. Schettler, professioonal; H. W. Arlin and Harry Gerhart, industrial; Mrs. W. W. Grant, organization, W. L. Miller and Msgr. R. C. Goebel, educational; Charles E Nail, financial; George W. Stephens, special gifts; and George B. Ganyard, county.

Each division will have a specific objective to reach during the course of the campaign.

A busy period of instruction and training confronts the Commandos but smooth-running invasion units are confidently predicted by the time "zero hour" arrives on Nov. 9.

mile-high gap in the towering Owen Stanley mountain range, and pressed on.

Gains of about three miles in the Kagi area and of about six miles to the Myola lakes in another advance were accompanied by Allied air activities which brought down three Japanese planes over the Buna invasion base of New Guinea's southeast coast, and four more over enemy airfields at Rabaul, New Britain.

In the Aleutian islands, the Nipponese also were paying heavily for footholds. American forces which Saturday announced occupation of the Andreanof group of islands between Dutch Harbor and Kiska have smashed daily with explosives and incendiaries on the enemy's Kiska camps and hangars. Five Japanese seaplanes were reported shot down.

While Japanese broadcasts a week ago told of snow and biting winds harassing their unsheltered camps in the westernmost Aleutians, American army bombers reported that an unusual period of good weather aided their raids on Thursday and Friday from the newly established bases less than 400 miles from Kiska

JAM OFFICE

Voters Rush to Beat Deadline For Registration.

Although registrations for the November election dropped below figures two years ago, scores of Mansfielders jammed the election board headquarters at the courthouse last night to qualify as voters in November.

The election board office remained open until 9 p. m., the registration deadline, to accommodate city residents who were unable to get to the board headquarters during the day. Early in the evening a line formed in front of the clerks' tables and at one time reached all the way to the courthouse entrance.

Board clerks had no figures today on the registrations, but they were certain that the total will be considerably below the record established two years ago. Slightly more than 21,000 Mansfielders were registered at the last count.

PREDICTS TAXES TO TAKE THIRD OF '43 INCOME

gory is where most of the taxable income lies.

"In order to raise the large amount of additional revenue required it is necessary to reach down into the lower income group, and in doing so I felt it preferable to levy a tax such as the 'victory' tax, (five per cent modified gross income tax), rather than a general retail sales tax," said George.

He said that high incomes are already so heavily taxed that there isn't much revenue left in them. Taking of all incomes over $25,000 in taxes, as suggested by President Roosevelt, would yield but $600,000,000, he said.

Defending congress against criticism for delaying the tax bill, George said that time was consumed "in a sincere effort to prevent the drastic increases from causing severe inequities and unduly interfering with our economy."

Anticipating criticism because the finance committee limited the normal-surtax corporation rate to 40 per cent as compared with the house 45 per cent rate, George said:

"In deciding that the total normal and surtax rate on corporations should not exceed 40 per cent, we gave careful consideration to the effect of such a rate upon our economy and also considered the effect of the rates levied by other countries."

Answering those who contend higher taxes are paid in other warring nations, George continued:

"If we look at the first bracket of individual income tax rates under this bill, we will find that the total normal and surtax rate amounts to 19 per cent In addition, the five per cent 'victory' tax raises this total to 24 per cent.

"If we add to this the 40 per cent imposed upon corporations, we will have a total rate of 64 per cent on individual incomes as compared with the British rate of 50 per cent. Moreover, in Great Britain, no state or local taxes are imposed.

George explained that the five per cent 'victory' tax on incomes above $624 was adopted as a substitute for a general retail sales tax. He contended that the burden would not be too hard to bear.

For example, he said, "a single person with a salary of $100 a month will pay a 'victory' tax of $28.80. He will get a post-war credit of $7.20."

"This tax," George said, "in my opinion, will be cheerfully borne by the American people, especially those in the lower income groups who already have demonstrated not only their willingness but their desire to contribute more directly to the war effort and an early victory."

George said that post-war refunds for both corporations and individuals are provided to aid in post-war readjustment.

month in October. Starting with Board 1 on Oct. 15, the contingents will go to Columbus for final physical examinations and induction during the final two weeks of the month.

Clerks of Boards 1 and 2 said they would have enough single men with dependents, those married since the draft law was enacted, and men formerly deferred because of minor physical defects to fill their October and November quotas. After that, they will have to dip into their other classifications.

Board 3, one of the 110 in Ohio which have used up their 1-A men, was requested by selective service headquarters to review all its other classifications, including 20-year-olds, 3-A and 3-B and 2-A and 2-B deferments, and submit a final report to the Columbus office.

If it is found that no more 1-A men are available from the board's district, then its calls will be adjusted downward so that other boards will be required to furnish the state quota until all boards are on an equal basis.

Under the revised selective service regulations, men in these groups are eligible for a 1-A rating:

1. Unmarried men with no dependents
2. Unmarried men with collateral dependents
3. Men married after Dec. 8, 1941.
4. Men married since their registration.
5. Former class 1-B men who can meet the reduced physical requirements.
6. Men in 4-F subject to reclassification under the less rigid physical requirements.

Germans Take Steps to Put Down Trouble in Norway and Fallen Denmark.

mu[illegible] recent unrest in Norway and Denmark.

Swedish dispatches recalled that Hitler declared in his latest speech that no bourgeois state would survive the war.

The latest outbreaks in Norway centered apparently in the Trondheim area, 200 miles below the Arctic circle.

German broadcasts said the state of civil emergency decreed there embraced large sections of two surrounding provinces as well as the great Trondheim port region.

The emergency was proclaimed, Berlin broadcasts said, because of recent sabotage attemps "which if they had succeeded would have endangered Norway's supply system."

The Berlin radio broadcast a DNB dispatch from Oslo which quoted Josef Terboven, German commissar for Norway, as saying the order was "nothing but justified German reaction to criminal acts committed by Norwegian radicals."

Another German broadcast heard in London said the emergency decree was accompanied by a declaration that anti-German outbreaks "will be broken by force of arms."

A Reuters dispatch from Stockholm quoted Swedish press reports yesterday that 3,000 to 4,000 German soldiers had been imprisoned for a mutiny at Alta in far northern Norway, and that 17 officers had been cashiered and 43 soldiers sentenced to death.

German broadcasts took an attitude of official astonishment at Denmark's attitude.

Reports reaching London said the Danes were aroused by the "arrogance and disorder" of the Danish free corps of some 600 members when it returned from the Russian front, and stoned the leaders of the corps during a parade Sept. 27.

In the ensuing rioting one bystander was reported killed and 10 other persons injured seriously.

Another instance of discord developed last week when it was reported that King Christian refused to permit construction of a trans-Danish highway through Jutland to facilitate the movement of supplies to the German army in Norway.

Reports reaching London from Stockholm said the terseness of Christian's reply to a telegram of birthday congratulations from Hitler did nothing to ease the situation.

The king was said to have wired back:

"Thank you—Christian Rex."

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 6 1942

One suggestion is that you drive awhile at 25 miles an hour—then the 35-mile limit will seem fast.

Cincinnati provides a good example by contributing twenty-seven confiscated slot machines to the scrap metal drive.

It may at least be assumed that David Murad, of Cleveland, arrested on Route 42 for speeding, was quite nonchalant about the whole thing.

Help School Children Find Scrap

AS MANSFIELD school children join in the search for scrap metal, so that no smallest piece may be overlooked, it becomes important that every resident of this county and vicinity be made to realize the urgency of this need.

The time has come for closer scrutiny of attics, sheds, tool houses, basements, garages, yards, and all places where scrap metal, or metallic articles no longer in use, may have been put away and possibly forgotten.

Manufacture of steel requires as much as 1,000 pounds of scrap metal for a ton of finished steel and there must be a steady flow of scrap metal to meet requirements for war materials.

Such items as metal ash trays, ornaments, toys, obsolete keys, broken scissors, discarded cutlery, lamp stands and other unused household fixtures are being turned in to replenish the dwindling supply—as well as abandoned industrial and farm equipment.

It will take more than what has heretofore been regarded as "junk" to meet continuous need for scrap metal, if the war continues to any great length, but for the present all that is asked is that everyone co-operate in the effort to accumulate as much scrap as possible from sources where it is now serving no useful purpose.

Nebraska recently set a high quota with total collection of scrap that totaled 104 pounds per person and other states, including Ohio, are hopeful of beating that record.

Encourage the school children in their work by looking again—and more carefully—for any scrap metal around the premises . . . even a few pounds—or a single pound—will help.

Message To All Motorists

WHILE gasoline rationing is not to be started in this territory until November 22, thoughtful motorists will realize that the objective of saving tires is just as important NOW as it will be later.

William M. Jeffers, director of rubber, has asked newspapers to stress this point "as frequently as possible," and, in one way or another, this is being done day after day, with informational material, reports of arrests for excessive speed, etc.

Mr. Jeffers "Message to Every Driver" is brief. It says: "You can save rubber and help win the war if you will do these things: (1) Drive only when absolutely necessary; (2) Keep under 35 miles an hour. (3) Keep your tires properly inflated: (4) Have them inspected regularly; (5) Share your car with others."

That's all—but there may be some who might miss seeing this unless you call it to their attention.

Governor Tells Sheriff To Act

ACTION by Governor Bricker instructing the sheriff of Geauga county to close a gambling place in that county shouldn't really be necessary, although, under the circumstances, it appears justified, as the governor says: "My attention has been repeatedly called to the open and flagrant violation of law in the operation of a gambling club . . . just a short distance from Cleveland."

Local authorities, city and county, are assumed to be in closer contact with conditions in their own communities than is the governor of the state—yet it sometimes appears that action must originate in Columbus in connection with law violations which involve gambling or liquor sales.

Included in the governor's order was a statement to the effect that unless the sheriff acts to close the gambling club "the attorney general will take steps to see that gambling laws are enforced."

To what extent the governor contemplates intervention "to see that gambling laws are enforced" is not disclosed—although there is no apparent justification for partiality.

Art Restrained By Union Rules

NOT UNTIL the present generation has it been considered appropriate to include the so-called "fine arts" under labor union rules, and artists in any line are inclined to resent restrictions designed to protect mediocrity. Recent resentment has been particularly strong in the realm of music and there is an odd situation when musical high school students, without thought of personal gain or competition with professional players, are barred from the air because they do not belong to the musicians' union.

Something may be done to restore sanity and fairness in that field, as a result of action now being undertaken by the federal department of Justice. And the federal radio commission may do a little useful work along the same line as the Federal Communications Act seems to be involved.

Santa Claus Makes Early Start

DO YOUR Christmas shopping now. It is only October, but merchants in Peru, Ill., are adopting this slogan. They are putting holiday goods on display and planning appropriate decorations for their stores. It is expected that Santa Claus will crowd Halloween witches and cats almost entirely out of the advertising picture.

The idea is twofold. In the first place, it will enable Christmas gifts to be sent to soldiers and sailors overseas before November 1. Then it will relieve the usual December pressure on stores, a welcome result in times when it is difficult to get needed help.

Northern Ohio coal requirement for home heating, as calculated by one furnace-feeder is: "About five tons for the winter and eight for the summer."

The suggestion is offered: "When you have a bad cold see a doctor and get it off your chest."

According to a Kansas editor: "A fool and his money are invited places."

Every little bit of scrap helps.

Effect of Reducing Bus Speed

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — Time was when any governmental move to cramp the style of inter-city buses would have been hailed with loud cries of joy by the railroad executives. The steam railroad men regarded the bus as a wicked invention, infringing on their government-granted monopoly of passenger transportation, just as the truck played a similar role with respect to the hauling of freight.

But the railroad men are worried about the effects of the recent order which, on October 15, will hold the speed of all rubber-tired vehicles to 35 miles an hour. No one in either railroad or bus circles has figured out how to maintain present bus schedules at this reduced speed. Buses making long runs between important cities have been accustomed to running more than 60 miles an hour whenever possible.

DESPITE this high rate of speed on the road, the schedule of most bus lines has not been too attractive when compared to the time of the better trains between the same points. This has been especially noticeable on such runs as those between New York and Washington, and New York and Boston, where the train service is unusually fast.

The inter-city bus runs as fast as a train on the good stretches of road, but it loses a lot of time going through city streets to its downtown terminals, not only in New York and Washington to cite that run, but in passing through the cities and big towns en route, Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore on this particular run.

The competing train, running on its own right of way, with tunnels in two of those cities, and few grade crossings, gains an enormous time advantage. When it comes to smaller places, the train in some instances does not even have to slow down. When it gets under 30 miles an hour the passengers think it is crawling, and there are no traffic lights to hold it up save when there is another train right ahead on the same track.

But that is only part of the story. As every passenger on a long cross country bus ride knows the big loss of time is made at the stops. Where a train would stay in a station only a few minutes, the bus generally stops fifteen minutes or longer. It has to make stops on long trips for the passengers to get food, just as the Santa Fe trains a few years back halted to permit Fred Harvey to serve the passengers.

FEW TRAINS make any stops today for the convenience of its passengers. The passengers are much more interested in getting to their destinations than in the opportunity to take a walk around a strange town or to eat a meal in a strange station.

All this adds up to a situation which, beginning on October 15, will put a heavy time penalty on the bus passenger as compared with the train passenger.

This is not an attack on the ruling. It is recognized by all who have considered it as vitally necessary for the conservation of rubber. In fact it would help that cause if buses operating inside cities, in place of street cars, were compelled to slow down a little for the same purpose. Not so much on their maximum speeds, as on their sudden stops running full speed up to very close to the stop sign and then slamming on the brakes.

But the already heavy passenger load of the railroads seems likely to be increased by this restriction of bus speed.

Peaceful Petunia

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

WE'RE going to continue those "Columnist for a Day" letters next week, but just now I've been commanded by several thousand Americans—the sissies!—to give further data on "Mister." Mister, as you may remember, is our new bull pup. Not Boston but British. Barely six months old, but already capable of serving as a tank in Alexandria, Chungking, Port Moresby or other way stations.

Mister not only could serve as a tank but looks like one. He has dewlaps that sweep the carpet, a roar that rips the ceiling and a facial expression that is a combination of a witch doctor's mask and a severe case of hives. All of which is combined with a disposition as loving and trusting as a Kansas milkmaid. One rush from Mister and you get kissed and scrambled in the same gulp. If you don't believe me count my black and blue spots.

Now I've been a dog lover since their fleas first bit me. I've owned every species of canine from a plain yellow pup to one of those aristocratic conga-stepping white Russian wolf hounds. But this mixture of ecstasy and ontush certainly had me stumped until I saw his pedigree certificate which was, believe me, as much of a surprise to me as it will be to you.

It seems that you and I have known this pup as Mister but genealogically he ain't nothin' of the sort. According to the registered chart of the American Kennel Club Stud Book, his name is Zorro Torro Benito. And believe it or not, his Mom was "Peaceful Petunia."

"Peaceful Petunia"—now you may think that's a joke. Tisn't. It shouldn't even be surprising. For if you should investigate most of the Fighting Fledgelings of this here nation, you'd discover pronto, that they were also sons of Peaceful Petunias. And that ain't just a gag. These sons are undoubtedly the world's most buxom battering rams. Like Mister there isn't anything they won't tackle with whoops of joy. And seldom do they retreat in dismay. Ninety-nine out of a hundred times it's the other fellow who's left in tatters. Wherefor you might believe that they were bred of Amazons and Supermen.

Don't kid yourself. Chances are Mom was just another "Peaceful Petunia"... some friendly, gentle little lady back in the States who is busily canning her pears, tomatoes and pickled peaches at this very moment, or clipping big bunches of zinnias, sweet williams, marigolds and gladioli for the sick neighbor down the street.

But take a tip from one who has learned. Never trust a Peaceful Petunia just because her son acts like a Zorro Torro Benito. The truth is, these gentle American mothers, wives and brides probably pack a deadlier wallop than any of buck-toothed Hirohito's regiments. They just look demure, that's all. But sidestep—and quick—when their men go into action. For the American home is still the toughest ammunition factory on earth... the deepest and deadliest arsenal against barbarism and injustice.

"Peaceful Petunia"—my hat's off to her. But don't be misled by her beguiling dimple. Chances are she packs brass knuckles and a pineapple.

Interpreting the War News

Capable Man Handles Big Job as Head of U. S. Forces In England

—By DE WITT MACKENZIE

LONDON—Because of a new order forbidding American officers above the rank of major to give newspaper interviews, it is impossible to report an interesting chat I had with Lieut. Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, but strictly on my own responsibility I venture to say our two-fisted European commander-in-chief is in damned (if you get what I mean) fine fettle.

It is also forbidden to say exactly where the general has his headquarters. However, it can be stated that I saw him in London, and this being the largest city on earth leaves plenty of room for speculation as to his precise place of operation.

One of the world's busiest men, handling one of the world's biggest and most vital jobs, the general still found time to be delightfully cordial. We "talked of many things, of ships and shoes and sealing-wax, and cabbages and kings."

I hadn't met the commander-in-chief before, but I came away with a most comfortable feeling of confidence that our front line offensive against Hitlerism is in strong, capable hands.

General "Ike," as the troops call him, has an hypnotic personality. That infectious laugh of his is in itself a great asset and is calculated to disarm an enemy.

Still having seen the way he looks you straight in the eye, having experienced the quickness and logic of his mind, having heard of his good works from close observers, I'm prepared to stick to my first impression.

That's the way his men feel about him, too, and it isn't likely any general could hypnotize a whole army unless he had the goods. You can add that British authorities not only like him but hold him in high esteem as a soldier.

So, having had this glimpse of the general, one no longer is surprised he is commander-in-chief in Europe at the comparatively young age of 51. And there's no longer any wonder at the way he zoomed up from the rank of colonel to lieutenant-general in less than two years. Don't forget he was chief of staff to General MacArthur in the Philippines and had much to do with planning defenses which gave the Japanese so much trouble.

THE GENERAL is a big fellow, but he moves with the ease that comes from well-trained, supple muscles. In his youthful days, he was a cowboy in his home country around Abilene, Kansas, before he went to West Point. His daily workout with a medicine ball keeps him toned up.

I should say that diplomacy is one of the general's inherent characteristics, but he doesn't beat about the bush.

All this gives the impression of honesty of thought. You feel he isn't trying to lead you up an alley.

In this respect Eisenhower is much like our commander-in-chief in the first World war. General Eisenhower, as I found him on the battlefront, was a straight talker who knew what he wanted to say and said it.

Eisenhower has a very tidy reputation as a disciplinarian. Wes Gallagher, correspondent for Wide World and the Associated Press, recently reported the general's code for his men as follows:

"We should not make the mistake that morale can be produced by pampering and by lowering of standards to permit greater use of living."

That creed is being applied to our boys in the British Isles. They understand fully they're going up against the most powerful fighting machine ever created—or at least it was the most powerful before it hurled itself against the amazing Russians.

Our troops have been made to realize they must make themselves expert in the tricks of killing and of self-defense. Thus we find them training like gladiators five days a week without thought of hardships. Then they are allowed to relax for two days to prevent over-training and going stale mentally and physically.

Thus Eisenhower's personality and character are being felt from headquarters right down through the rank and file.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—When the Federal Bureau of Investigation picked up more than 50 enemy aliens in Baltimore the other day, it added another note to one of the more amazing chapters of World War II.

Without any serious witch-hunting and with comparative little publicity, the FBI and cooperating agencies have arrested more than 10,000 enemy aliens since Pearl Harbor. That face came out the other day in a little publicized speech which FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover made in New York before the International Association of Police Chiefs.

Never in the history of law enforcement in this country has any similar round-up taken place. In the hysteria of World War I, such wholesale arrests would have been a prelude to riots and internal strife. There would have been daily headlines for months. Court battles would have multiplied into the hundreds. If there is any doubt of it go back to the draft-dodger and sabotage cases of 25 years ago.

WHAT has made the present control of fifth columnists and saboteurs possible? On the enforcement side, we can quote Hoover: "Years before Pearl Harbor, we began the careful cataloguing of names and activities of persons who would fight against America rather than for America. We publicly explained just what we were doing and why...

"A far-seeing president of the United States stood firmly behind us in our efforts to protect America against the day when our enemies within might attack. The value of preparedness has since vindicated our judgment. When war came, thousands of dangerous enemy aliens were promptly arrested before they could move into action."

In 1939 the president issued a directive which opened the way for the FBI to become the core of a nation-wide organization for national defense law enforcement. Almost overnight 155,000 police officers added to their regular police duties the investigation of activities menacing national security.

THE FBI sent two missions to England to study police procedure under actual wartime conditions. Civilian Defense and Wartime Traffic schools were being held long before Dec. 7, last year.

When war came the "national police system" was a going concern. This has been augmented by the auxiliary police. A recent survey by the FBI shows that there are 175 of these auxiliary officers for every 100 regular officers in the larger cities. Most of them have had or are now receiving training which is far better than the average police officer of World War I had.

That's why the FBI and its cooperating agencies have had the enemy alien, spy, and sabotage situation so well in hand.

Expensive Laugh

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The Case of the 13 Walking Corpses — now there's a title for a mystery chiller!

It's not a gruesome story. It's the story of the most expensive single laugh on the Broadway stage, one that has cost the producers of "Arsenic and Old Lace" more than $10,000 since the Broadway production and road companies opened in January of 1941.

The mystery comedy, you know, deals with 13 elderly gentlemen put out of their misery with poisoned elderberry wine by two warm-hearted spinsters. Just for a last laugh at the final curtain calls, the 13 dead men referred to throughout the action prance out spryly and take a bow.

WHO are the 13 old men? That was the mystery I wanted to sell. Howard Lindsay and Russell Crouse, the producers, had the answers. The 13 are old-time actors and vaudevillians for the most, including James Mooney and James Kearney, of whom you may have heard. They're hearty old fellows, too, for in the 21 months the comedy has been running, none has died and there have been only two changes—one caused when a corpse got a better part in a road company.

The ten seconds of "work" naturally doesn't pay much, but for most of the corpses, it's just something to do. They have organized an act they do at benefits, billing themselves "The 13 Stiffs." During the day they sit around the Lambs Club or elsewhere and swap lies, or sing the theme song Mooney has written entitled, "We're Dead But We Won't Lie Down."

TO A Britisher, just off the boat, dimly lit New York is a bright and wonderful place—not because of neglected lights which shine casually from hotel windows, but for something we take for granted—food.

The other night I sat across a checkered table cloth from two young British officers. One had been in New York a fortnight (they still say that), the other was only three hours off his ship. We were exchanging observations on the way the English laugh in contrast to Americans, when the new arrival suddenly sat upright. He actually seemed shocked. I saw he was pointing to a plate of turkey which had been placed before his friend.

The veteran visitor of a fortnight raised his hand reassuringly. "I know, Don" he said solemnly. "You'll just have to get used to the food you'll see in America. They must waste more in New York in a day than would be eaten in a week in London, but it can't be helped. Little matter of transportation. So relax and order a little of everything you haven't had for the last year."

And believe me, Don did!

Sauerkraut

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

ON A COLD, cheerless, rainy afternoon last week, we made a batch of sauerkraut. Late rains had made the big heads of cabbage in our garden crisp and tense. A few were bursted. We borrowed a hand-made kraut cutter from a neighbor—one of those with two knives set into a heavy board with a box to slide across them. We put the outfit atop a wide-mouth 5-gallon crock, and with every motion lacy crisp slices of slaw began to heap into the crock below.

Previously I had cut and heaped a pile of solid heads in the garden, and now two little boys took turns bringing in white mammoth heads of cabbage which I quartered on the kitchen table, while the older children took turns sliding them over the knives.

Every little while we stopped and used the heavy oaken stomper, to bruise the shredded layers—then added salt. We repeated the process until within an inch of the top. Then carefully we covered the top with fresh leaves, pressed it all down with an inverted plate, and a smooth heavy stone. I carried the weighty crock to the coolest corner of the cellar, where its contents might ripen undisturbed. After about six weeks, or whenever the kraut is sour enough to suit our taste, my wife will can the finished product in sizes suitable for a single family meal.

GOOD steaming kraut and backbone—after the butchering—or sauerkraut with dumplings and sausage is an oldtime standby of robust Pennsylvania Dutch farmers. Even raw kraut can be very appetizing, and satisfies a need for vitamins and green food that humans crave—especially in winter.

Our mothers did not know about balanced diet—vitamins were not yet discovered. But pioneer women who insisted on variety of winter store of food—whose pantries were stocked with apples and kraut and dried corn and beans—who had squashes and pumpkins and celery, carrots, turnips and beets in the bins alongside the potatoes—who had homemade butter and creamy milk and fresh eggs from their own livestock—home-cured hams and bacon, dressed fowls and country cheeses—such women did not need to know their vitamins. Given women like that and provisions like that, vitamins will take care of themselves.
